

Ohio Solons Scramble For Highway Cash

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's legislature is expected to go to work promptly when it reconvenes Tuesday to try to find matching funds for the state's nearly-broke transportation department.

Gov. James A. Rhodes' newly-proposed, $1.64 billion bond issue for transportation could be the answer. But with other states ready to move promptly to receive their share of about $2 billion in federal funds, some lawmakers feel it will come too late. Rhodes proposed the bond issue for the June 3 primary.

There were initial reports that Ohio, if it could raise state matching funds ranging from 10 to 30 per cent of project costs, might be able to get as much as $100 million as a result of President Ford's decision to release the impounded funds.

But Ben Brace, finance officer for the transportation department, said Wednesday that the state has between $50 million and $55 million due from the federal government this fiscal year.

Whether Ohio would get more than that, he said, is uncertain.

Brace said Ohio actually is due a total of $434 million — money it would have received had President Nixon not ordered them frozen back in 1969.

At least five other states are in trouble raising matching funds, but officials said as many as 17 others have matching funds.

Transportation Director Richard Jackson said the department doesn't have any extra money available.

Snow removal was blamed for eating into the department's operating funds the past couple of months. More serious snows this winter could make it "very difficult" for the department to meet its obligations, Jackson added.

The department gets all its funds from Ohio's gasoline and highway user taxes, and no appropriation from the state's general fund. There were reports Wednesday, however, that the legislature might be able to transfer funds from another agency or department.

House Minority Leader Charles F. Kurfess, R-83 Perrysburg, as well as Jackson, put in a plug for the Rhodes' bond proposal. Kurfess said its approval would put Ohio into an "advantageous situation" such as was during the early part of the state's interstate construction.

Presumably, if voters approved June 3, Ohio could qualify for whatever federal funds remain at that time on the basis that the matching money is obligated. Passage of the bond issue, Jackson said, would enable the state to receive "every federal dollar available."

The state pays 10 per cent of the cost of interstate construction within its borders, but must raise 30 per cent for construction on other federal aid highway.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, said he is asking Senate Finance Chairman Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, to convene that panel immediately to try to determine if Ohio has funds available to match the money Ford is releasing.

On a 90-10 matching basis, the state would only need to come up with about $5 million to receive $45 million.

Meshel could not be reached for comment Wednesday, about midway through a winter vacation for lawmakers.

The Ohio House plans a skeleton session Friday afternoon.

Vicious Storm Pounds Northeast With Heavy Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A fast-moving storm that walloped parts of the Eastern Seaboard with up to 9 inches of snow swirled out over the Atlantic today while a new storm hit the opposite end of the country with flooding rains.

Light snow lingered over northern New England, a remnant of the storm that snarled traffic and closed schools and businesses Wednesday afternoon from eastern Pennsylvania to Rhode Island. The snow ranged from 5 inches in Pennsylvania to 9 inches in lower New England.

For New York City, the 6.3-inch snow was the heaviest in four years. Many businesses closed early. The New York and American stock exchanges quit for the day an hour and a half ahead of the normal closing bell. Commuters jammed bus and rail terminals at early afternoon.

La Guardia Airport closed Wednesday afternoon and crews at Kennedy Airport struggled to keep one runway open.

The storm's impact was lessened somewhat by the Lincoln's Birthday holiday. State and city offices and many banks were closed.

A seven-truck pileup on Interstate 70 in eastern Pennsylvania killed one man and tied up traffic for nearly 15 hours Wednesday. Seven persons were overcome by toxic styrene gas fumes from a tank truck, but all were revived with oxygen.

In the West, the problem was wind and water as a wide-ranging Pacific storm hit northern California with torrential rains.

Four inches of gale-driven rain swamped the Sonoma County community of Healdsburg through Wednesday night. Santa Rosa, Ukiah and Mt. Shasta were hit by 2-inch downpours.

High-water warnings were posted for virtually every major river in the northern half of California late Wednesday. The rains were expected to continue at least through the forenoon hours.

Gale warnings for winds in excess of 45 miles an hour flew along the northern California coast. Winds with gusts to 76 m.p.h. raked Reno, Nev., during the night.

The rains turned to snow in the mountains. Near-blizzard conditions swept the Sierra. Heavy snow piled up north into the Oregon Cascades. Parts of Idaho and Montana were alerted for heavy and blowing snow.

Light snow sifted eastward through the northern Rockies and into the Plains.

Arctic cold crept into the mid-continent behind the eastern storm, dropping temperatures near or below zero across the northern Midwest.

Fair skies prevailed over most of the southern half of the country and sections of the Midwest.

Sales Tax Increase To Help Cities Pushed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes proposed an increase in the state sales tax today to finance a massive $2.5 billion bond issue to rebuild inner cities, develop lake and river ports and build a network of cancer facilities.

The bonds would be repaid by a 7-10ths of a cent increase in the four per cent sales tax.

The wide-ranging city-oriented proposal was the final plank in a four part package of programs designed to make Ohio "depression proof." It was also the second tax increase recommended by the governor.

"I propose today a revolutionary approach to the problems of our cities," Rhodes told reporters in an early morning news conference. "I propose a massive program in which every city in the state will receive at least $1 million for downtown renovation."

Rhodes said nearly two-thirds of the bond revenue would go to cities and "the remainder will be spent on state projects, which will be in the cities or will affect the cities directly."

Rhodes described his program as a revolutionary approach to "declare war on the deterioration in our large cities which has worsened steadily for 30 years, leading to increased unemployment, increased crime, increased welfare and waste of human resources."

"If we do not get a favorable vote on these four issues, Ohio's advantage over other states will disappear," he claimed.

"Give me the tools to fight crime, unemployment and welfare," Rhodes asked.

Rhodes, who pledged no new or increased taxes during his campaign, had defended his earlier proposal for an increase in gasoline taxes on the grounds that it would be brought before the people for a vote.

The same would apply to the sales tax boost, which he wants on the June ballot with the other three issues.

The General Assembly will have to approve Rhodes issues by March 4 to qualify for the primary filing deadline. Here are the major proposals in the governor's latest program:

—A public construction project "which will produce 75,000 jobs a year for the next four years, which will help to make Ohio's economy depression-proof."

—Creation of a five-member bipartisan Ohio Central Cities Development Authority to act as a clearing house for urban projects.

—Development of the state's lake and river ports over the next four years with the infusion of $275 million of the bond money. Rhodes said river ports would get $135 million, including "an estimated $50 million at Cincinnati to make the Queen City a gateway port for Ohio." Lake Erie ports would get $140 million.

—Development of cancer treatment, education and research centers in Cincinnati, Cleveland and Toledo.

Overall, his program would provide $950 million for state capital improvement programs, another $657 million for major cities, $693 million for all other cities, and $200 million specifically earmarked for inner city cleanup grants.

Offshore Drilling Plans Hit Block

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interior Department says its offshore oil development program could be delayed up to four months by the withdrawal of invitations to oil companies to suggest Mid-Atlantic areas for leasing.

Assistant Interior Secretary Royston C. Hughes said the delay could even be longer if the Supreme Court fails to rule before the summer recess on a suit over ownership of the oil resources in the Mid-Atlantic.

Hughes commented Wednesday after announcing that the department had been "premature" in asking oil companies Tuesday to submit nominations for offshore areas they would like offered for leasing.

The reversal came only a day after New Jersey Gov. Brendan Byrne threatened to sue if the request for nominations were not postponed.

Byrne said that under a 1971 agreement with New Jersey the government promised not to seek nominations until the oil ownership suit is settled by the Supreme Court.

The court has scheduled a Feb. 24 hearing, and the Justice Department has requested a prompt ruling — at least before the court recesses for the summer June 30.

The government filed the suit in 1969 against Maine and 11 other coastal states to settle the issue of whether the federal government or the states own oil and gas resources beyond the three-mile offshore limit.

In a statement issued through Hughes, Interior Department Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton said that when he requested nominations he was "unaware that representation had been made by the federal government to the Supreme Court that the Department of Interior would not call for nominations before the court's determination in the case ..."

Morton had said two weeks earlier that the nation's pressing need for oil compelled him to disregard the agreement, which was made before a time of serious oil shortages.

Meanwhile, two Ford administration officials said Wednesday that unless the United States becomes more independent of foreign oil, a future Arab oil embargo could "strangle" the United States.

Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent said, "An oil embargo like the one in 1973 would strangle us, because we would have become even more dependent on Mideast oil than we were in 1973."

Dent said he did not intend any connection between his remarks on possible economic strangulation and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's recent statement that the United States might consider using force against oil-producing nations if there is "some actual strangulation of the industrialized world."

Federal Energy Administrator Frank G. Zarb said another embargo would result in "a serious disruption to the economy, a lot more serious than we experienced the last time." He also agreed that any future embargo would amount to "strangulation."

As part of the U.S. goal of lessening dependence on foreign oil, the Interior Department plans to accelerate the leasing of oil and gas rights, opening up previously untouched areas of the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf of Alaska for bidding and eventual commercial production.

1,400 Atom Plant Mishaps Reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's nuclear power plants experienced more than 1,400 "abnormal occurrences" last year that related to safe operation or potential release of radiation, Nuclear Regulatory Commission reports show.

However, only four of the events in 1974 were "directly significant" to safe reactor operation or release of radiation to the environment and no injuries or property damage resulted.

The four events all occurred at nuclear power plants in Illinois operated by Commonwealth Edison Co., a Chicago-based utility that leads the nation in generation of electricity with nuclear power.

The analysis of the reports found that 888 of the occurrences were insignificant. They had no real or potential adverse effect on a nuclear power plant's operation but constituted a violation of government-prescribed technical standards.

The analysis found that 524 abnormal occurrences were "potentially significant." These are violations of a plant's technical specifications caused by problems intermediate in severity.

Occurrences considered directly significant involved either release of radiation above set limits, significant property damage or personal injury or violation of a safety limit.

Only one of the directly significant occurrences involved release of radiation, the NRC reports indicate. It occurred July 26 at Commonwealth Edison's Zion nuclear power station on the shore of Lake Michigan north of Chicago.

Operators were transferring slightly radioactive water from one tank to another when the tank being filled began overflowing onto the ground, the official report filed with the NRC indicated.

A gravel dike was built around the spill and absorbent material used to soak the water up. The report said no radiation reached Lake Michigan.

Columbus Man Wins

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A $2.50 investment in the Ohio Lottery has brought Cassius Yoakum of Columbus $300,000.

Yoakum won the lottery's weekly grand prize after buying two 50-cent tickets the week he became eligible for the Buckeye 300. He said he has bought only five tickets since the lottery started last summer.

"I don't owe a bill so I don't know what I'm going to do with the money," Yoakum said. But he added he probably would buy his former wife a car.

Asked whether he would return to work as a compositor and printer for National Graphics Corp., Yoakum said "I've got a lot of thinking to do about that. I've been there 29 years."

The $30,000 second prize went to James G. Kumbars of Steubenville. Kumbars said his wife had contracted multiple sclerosis, and the money would help battle the disease.

Four others won $15,000 each. They were identified by the Lottery Commission as: Tressie Naro, Oberlin; Albert Stanley, Dalton; John Rosin, Cleveland; and Marvin Wells, Spencerville, Ind.

ROUNDTOWN

PICKAWAY County Bicentennial committee chairman today issued a reminder to residents of the county and students of the four school districts that Saturday is the deadline for the Bicentennial logo contest ... The committee has received several entries already.

FREE immunizations for all residents of Pickaway County and Circleville will be given Friday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Pickaway County Board of Health, 705 S. Court St. ...

Persons attending the clinic should bring any former immunization records ...

Immunizations available include the polio Sabin series, DPT series, Reubella and Rubella immunizations, and diphtheria and tetanus booster shots.

WE would like to call attention today to the Letters To The Editor column on page 4 ... Circleville safety director Ed Ebert presents the city's side of the wage negotiations with the members of the local chapter of the Ohio Association of Professional Fire Fighters.

Collins Gets School Post

IRONTON, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Oakley C. Collins, R-17 Ironton, was appointed superintendent of the Lawrence County schools Wednesday by the board of education.

Collins, a former school administrator and mine operator, will succeed Harvey Butcher who will retire July 31.

Collins, who will receive an annual salary of $21,000, will serve as an assistant to Butcher until he becomes superintendent Aug. 1.

Collins told board members he would seek an opinion from the state auditor whether the position would be in conflict to his legislative duties.

Winning Ohio Lottery Numbers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The winning single number in the weekly Ohio Lottery drawing is 589 and the double set 937 126, the lottery commission announced Thursday.

The six-digit Gold-Rush number is 953628.

HAPPY TRIP WINNER—Diane Hardesty (center), secretary of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce office, receives an expense paid vacation to Myrtle Beach, S. C., May 4-9. Wednesday business leaders of the Grand Strand area were in Circleville promoting their annual Spring Fling Auto Tour. In addition to the trip won by Mrs. Hardesty, the visitors also presented two more trips to the chamber. One will be used by a chamber member and the other will be

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, seemingly feeding on its own recent strength, jumped ahead in extremely heavy trading today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 12.13 at 727.16, and gainers overwhelmed losers by about a 9-2 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume set an opening-hour record of 10.20 million shares and had reached 16.57 million by noon. It stood a good chance of challenging the full-day mark of 23.13 million shares set Jan. 27.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was up .83 at 76.30.

Brokers found little in the economic news to explain the new explosion of buying, which began with a sharp upturn toward the close Wednesday.

They noted that many investors had been looking for a pullback from the sharp gains of January. But when the declines proved very mild late last week and early this week, it evidently prompted many investors who had been holding back to jump in for fear of missing a possible further advance. The NYSE's composite index rose .67 to 43.12.

Kissinger Notes 'Positive' Talks With Egypt's Sadat

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger concluded "very positive" talks today with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat on an Israeli withdrawal in Sinai and flew here seeking Syria's support.

"We are still in business," Kissinger told newsmen before meeting with Syrian President Hafez Assad.

Privately, U.S. officials said Syria was not opposed to a second-stage agreement between Egypt and Israel and might actually favor another Golan Heights accord.

Significantly, an editorial in the official Syrian government newspaper Al Thawra called for militancy

"whether the political endeavors go to Geneva or stay here." Until now Syria has consistently demanded an immediate resumption of the Geneva peace conference.

Kissinger takes his "exploratory" mission to Israel tonight. A senior American diplomat said further significant progress was unlikely before Kissinger returns to the region around March 10. Stopping first in Cairo, he plans to work out the details then of a sizable Israeli pullback in exchange for moves by Egypt toward acceptance of the Jewish state.

U.S. Officials said an agreement would involve a document signed by both Egypt and Israel. But these officials would not go into detail except to hint that one element of the settlement would involve replacing the oil Israel would lose by giving up the Israeli-occupied Abu Rudeis oil fields.

Kissinger is scheduled to confer with the Shah of Iran in Zurich, Switzerland next Tuesday. Iran, which has been Israel's only foreign supplier, apparently would guarantee to make up the losses, with the United States the backup source in the event of an emergency.

Kissinger met with Sadat for about seven hours in a 24-hour stay in Cairo. Newsmen were told that the Egyptian president understands there must be a "quid pro quo" for an Israeli withdrawal. But the negotiations were described as the most difficult Kissinger has experienced in the Middle East.

In a ceremony at Tahra Palace, Kissinger and Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy signed an agreement under which the United States will lend Egypt $80 million to finance imports of agricultural and industrial equipment, spare parts and others essential commodities. The loans are repayable over 40 years at 2 per cent, with a 10-year grace period.

Ohio Jobless Claims Show Big Increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The number of Ohioans filing for unemployment claims for the first time has nearly doubled February 1974 totals — from 22,846 a year ago to 41,445 last week, the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services reported.

And the number of continuing claimants in Ohio increased from 108,419 to an estimated 248,500 for the first week in February, OBES figures indicate.

A survey by the Ohio State University Center for Business and Economic Research shows employment of production workers and nonsupervisory personnel in December dropped six per cent from December 1973 totals, with the Cincinnati-Hamilton County area suffering the sharpest decline — 12 per cent.

Seven other city-county metropolitan areas covered by the OSU Center report showed an increase in production unemployment from December 1973 levels.

In Columbus (Franklin County), the increase was nine per cent, Dayton (Montgomery) seven per cent, Toledo (Lucas) five per cent, Canton (Stark) and Cleveland (Cuyahoga) four per cent and Akron (Summit) and Youngstown (Mahoning) one per cent.

Hardest hit of the 11 industrial categories was miscellaneous manufacturing, with a 15 per cent December-to-December decline. The state's construction industry suffered a 14 per cent employment drop from December 1973.

Total employment for the state in 1974 was up one per cent, however, the center reported.

In a breakdown of OBES figures by metropolitan areas, the eight largest counties registered virtually a 100 per cent increase in the number of claimants unemployed a week or more from 49,231 a year ago to 101,500 estimated claimants for the first week in February.

Cuyahoga County registered the biggest jump in continuing claimants, from 12,786 a year ago, to 30,461 Feb. 1.

Other large county increases in numbers of continuing claimants were: Franklin, 7,813 to 16,008; Hamilton, 6,082 to 10,952; Lucas, 5,700 to 12,638; Mahoning, 3,139 to 7,314; Montgomery, 9,927 to 9,433; Stark, 3,386 to 7,469 and Summit, 4,398 to 9,153, the OBES said.

Radar Brings Big Money To Tiny Town

HARTSBURG, Ill. (AP) — A part-time policeman using radar equipment provides this tiny central Illinois town with its biggest single source of income.

Drivers speeding through Hartsburg, population 363, were fined $18,996 in 1974, more than half of the amount Mayor Fred Ritterbush said is needed to run the town for a year.

"Everybody seems to think we're out for the money, and we aren't," Ritterbush said in an interview Wednesday.

"Our prime concern when we hired the radar patrolman was to make the street safe for the schoolchildren who have to cross it, for churchgoers and for the farmers taking their grain trucks to the elevator."

"The street" in Hartsburg is a half-mile stretch of Illinois 121.

The speed limit in town is 45 miles per hour, but Ritterbush said patrolman Roger Shane generally allows drivers a 10 m.p.h. leeway. This means drivers going the legal maximum of 55 m.p.h. on Illinois 121 could sail through Hartsburg without slowing down.

Ritterbush said Shane works irregular hours and is paid $15 an hour.

"We could put a man out there 24 hours a day and make even more money. But that's not what we are interested in. We just want to make the streets safe," Ritterbush said.

Town Clerk Wayne Coffey adds, "We had a few accidents where people were pretty mangled because someone decided he wanted to fly through the town. There hasn't been a major accident since Shane was hired."

Congress Pressures Fed Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Steps are under way in Congress to force the Federal Reserve to increase the nation's money supply as a way to fight the recession.

Chairmen of the House and Senate Banking committees are sponsoring bills that would impose that requirement on the Fed and also require it to consult with Congress on future money-management decisions.

The money supply is the amount of cash in the public's hands plus the total of checking account deposits.

The Federal Reserve last year held down the growth in the money supply in an attempt to fight inflation. Toward the end of the year, the Fed eased up on its tight money policy as the central bank cautiously switched to cope with the growing recession.

Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur F. Burns and Treasury Secretary William E. Simon have asserted that the congressional proposals could wreck all chances for economic recovery. They also say Congress hasn't done well at fiscal policy and should leave monetary policy to the Federal Reserve experts.

Get Valentine Via Singers

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Imagine picking up the phone on Friday and getting socked in the ear with a chorus of "You Are My Valentine, My Only Valentine."

Or how about (to the tune of "Five-foot-two Eyes of Blue") "Eight-foot-three, bowlegged knees; oh, what a cutie you are to me."

That, it seems, will be the fate of some love-hounded fellas and gals as Sigma Alpha Iota, a professional music sorority at Michigan State University, swings into action for Valentine's Day.

It's cheaper than candy or flowers. For 25 cents, a quartet of women will make the singing calls. Proceeds go toward music scholarships.

Grove City Teenagers In Wreck

Three Grove City teenagers received minor injuries when they were involved in a single-car accident, 8:15 p.m. Wednesday.

According to the report taken by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy John Bost, Thomas K. Wilburn, 17, was southbound on Ridpath Road when he failed to negotiate a curve.

The vehicle traveled off the right side of the road, rolled over coming to rest on its wheels.

Wilburn complained of a leg pain. James A. Shipe, 15, received lacerations to both hands and arms and Christopher A. Lauter, 16, complained of back pain.

All were referred to a doctor by Deputy Bost.

Deputy Receives BSSA Award

Franklin County Sheriff's Deputy Philip Corbitt was awarded the Buckeye State Sheriff's Association Merit Award during ceremonies Wednesday held in Columbus.

Corbitt was presented the award by BSSA President Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, for his Dec. 27 apprehension of two robbers burglarizing the Seelig's Pharmacy on Hamilton Road.

He was able to hold the two suspects until Columbus Police arrived.

Corbitt joined the Franklin Sheriff's Department six years ago assigned to the Warrants and Extradition Bureau.

It was the first time in several years the second highest award has been given.

The award read: "The Buckeye State Sheriff's Association Merit Award is hereby presented to Deputy Philip G. Corbitt in recognition of his apprehension of criminals whose acts were a danger to the public welfare. This officer's display of courage, dedication to duty and general ability removed from the community a potential threat to the safety and well being of every citizen."

Turkish Cypriot State Bared

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Leaders of the Turkish Cypriot community proclaimed a separate Turkish Cypriot state in northern Cyprus today but said they wanted to federate it with a Greek Cypriot state.

The proclamation was made jointly by the council of ministers and the legislative assembly of the "Autonomous Turkish Cypriot Administration," meeting in joint session in the Turkish Cypriot quarter of Nicosia.

The proclamation came seven months after the Turkish invasion of Cyprus. It ended in Turkish occupation of the northern 40 per cent of the island and the de facto partition of Cyprus.

Hundreds of Turkish Cypriots in the main square of their sector of the divided capital cheered as the proclamation was read over loudspeakers.

Rauf Denktaş, the leader of the Turkish Cypriot community and the vice president in the long-defunct Greek-Turkish island government, was unanimously chosen head of the new state by the joint session, the loudspeakers said.

$20 Million Spent By Aging Panel

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Commission on Aging spent about $20 million last year to provide social programs for the elderly in 60 counties, its annual report said Wednesday.

David C. Crowley, executive director, said the commission now is opening "area centers" so that all of the state can be served in the coming year.

All but $125,000 of the commission's annual budget comes from federal funds. The commission operates programs that include free noon meals for the needy aged.

"A DELICIOUS DIVISION OF VAN-ORR FOODS"

Capital 'Sacrifices' Due To Recession

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here, too, they sacrifice.

The White House has dropped its fish course. The Iranian Embassy has cut back on caviar. And the State Department has given up some chauffeured cars.

There must be a recession.

When he visited the President, British Prime Minister Harold Wilson had to settle for turtle soup and sherry. Pakistani Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto was served consommé and brandy.

The savings? "It's hard to calculate," says Sheila Rabb Weidenfeld, the First Lady's press secretary. "The chef has figured that soup is less expensive than fish. But it depends on the kind ..."

"Certainly you don't use your best brandy ..."

"We're trying to be terribly chic and still economize," says Nancy Lammerding, White House social secretary. "We're not even using French champagne."

Or fresh flowers. For centerpieces, the White House has substituted borrowed antique duck decoys.

First Lady Betty Ford goes over the menus.

"She has instructed the waiters not to waste meat by serving large portions," Mrs. Weidenfeld says. "At state dinners, people are asked to serve themselves so they don't have to take things they don't want or like."

Word about the caviar cutback comes from the ambassador's secretary at the Iranian Embassy. Iran is noted for its caviar. But the embassy is limiting the amount it serves at its parties, the secretary says.

Spoonfuls are reserved for "small" parties only, the secretary says. And that, by the embassy's count, means 20 guests or fewer.

Middle-level employees at the State Department have been asked to take taxis instead of chauffeured cars — which still beats walking.

"It costs only 70 cents to take a taxi from the State Department to Blair House, and it costs more than that to take a car out," says Lucy Winchester, an assistant chief of protocol. Blair House is guest quarters for visiting dignitaries.

Chief of Protocol Henry E. Catto says there have been other State Department economies: guest lists are being examined more critically, staffers aren't taking as many out-of-town trips and heads of state are being urged to exchange autographed photos instead of expensive gifts.

The Fords? They pay for their own meals, Mrs. Weidenfeld says. "I heard Mrs. Ford telling (White House chef Henry Haller) that the family likes pot roast. And she has given him instructions to serve the Fords just what he would serve his own family."

"She goes through the roof when expensive things are served."

Picketing Halted

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — Mass Union picketing of Lebanon's business district has been ordered stopped by a temporary court order, but visiting Judge Fred B. Cramer said it could continue at city facilities.

The city went to court again Wednesday, charging the picketing in support of 18 fired city employees had cost merchants $1 million. The city is seeking $1.25 million in damages.

Cramer, of Butler County and sitting as a visiting judge in Warren County Common Pleas Court, granted a temporary order and refused a permanent injunction requested by the city.

He also warned picketers against harrasing shoppers. A hearing on the damages and permanent injunction will be held later, court officials said.

Union attorneys argued that the boycott was the only weapon left the fired strikers.

The strikers walked out Nov. 21 after Lebanon City Council refused to recognize the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers as their bargaining agent.

They were fired in December for refusing a court order to return to work. The IBEW and the AFL-CIO began mass picketing of the city in January.

The strikers all were employed at the city waterworks and power plant.

NATIONWIDE GRADUATE—James C. Deal, center, Ashville, receives his Nationwide Insurance Co. Certificate of Graduation from Nationwide President John E. Fisher, left, and Earl F. Peitz, vice-president of marketing services. Deal, along with 72 other new agents from across the nation, completed an extensive three-week course at the Nationwide Training Academy, Worthington. He is a new agent in the Pickaway County area with his office in Ashville. Deal served as a Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff for five years.

A Page Of Opinion

Fat Potential Differs

Is it really true that women put on weight faster than their husbands? Despite conspicuous exceptions, there is some truth to the rule. Overweight wives complain of the injustice of it all — their husbands eat more than they do and never put on weight.

Women, it seems, need less food than men do. If follows like a geometric theorem they can add pounds on calories that leave men svelte. The average girl aged 13-15 may need 500 fewer calories than the average boy that age.

At ages 16-19, the average boy might need 3,600 calories, the average girl 2,400. That is 33 per cent less. The girl who at 14 was eating one-sixth less than her boy cousin of the same age will find at 17 or 18 that she will become fatter than he is unless she cuts her food intake to one-third less.

It's following the path of least resistance to continue eating at one's former rate even though body needs change. That's why athletes out of training and farm workers in the off season frequently add avoirdupois.

The Heath's Off

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—People . . . Places . . . Mrs. Margaret Thatcher, who came out of obscurity to topple the top man of Britain's Conservative Party, owes a lot to Harry S. Truman. As everybody remembers, Truman advised, "If you can't stand the Heath, get out of the kitchen."

The news from Saigon is outrageously familiar:

(UPI) " . . . Meanwhile, the Saigon government reported that 169 Communist soldiers were killed during the 24 hours ended at dawn today in what were termed 86 ceasefire violations. Government losses were put at 36 killed and 164 wounded."

Nothing changes. The guys in the White Hats always defeat the guys in the Black Pajamas, but continue to lose the war, of course. Ninety Communists, the communists continued, were killed during an air raid on "a district town in Quang Ngai Province 350 miles northeast of Saigon, Military sources said."

The head count was made through a thick overcast, probably. It's the first war of the Computer Age.

Ah, yes, and retired Lt. Gen. Duong Van (Big) Minh has opened another of his political campaigns. He has tried more comebacks than mah jong.

Big Minh, nicknamed Big because he's an inch or two taller than the average underslung Vietnamese, once was on our CIA payroll. He was hired in 1963 to round up a small group of fellow officers to overthrow President Ngo Dinh Diem. Our then ambassador, Henry Cabot Lodge, was instructed by the Kennedy Administration to suggest to Diem that his troublesome brother and sister-in-law, Madame Nhu, be given a long vacation in Paris at the expense of the American taxpayer. Diem replied, in effect, that he'd consider it if President Kennedy sent his brother Bobby into exile.

When the coup was imminent, Lodge twice offered Diem asylum in the American Embassy — where Diem's top political foe, a Buddhist monk, was sojourning. Diem indignantly refused. Then Lodge went to Big Minh, our chosen one, and extracted from him a promise to let Diem leave the country, unharmed, once driven from office.

Big Minh's soldiers shot Diem and his brother in cold blood. That was Nov. 2, 1963. Big Minh was soon ousted to Thailand, to raise orchids. The U.S. has been in trouble in Vietnam ever since then. Now Big Minh is talking big again, and Defense Secretary James Schlesinger said the other day on TV's "Today" show that U.S. aid may be needed there for another ten or 15 years.

The House Committee on Un-American Activities is no more. When it passed away, unwept, unhonored and unsung, it was something akin to the demolition of, let's say, the pad from which Richard Nixon was launched on his meteoric career.

His launching, looking back on it, was a 10,000-to-1 shot. The man who many years later made an historic detente with the Soviet Union, was just another run-of-the mill Red baiter (circa Joe McCarthy) when he was selected for the committee. But then came the confrontation between ex-Communist Whittaker Chambers and Alger Hiss, the bright young former State Department aide who headed the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and enjoyed the friendship of public figures as politically estranged as Dean Acheson and John Foster Dulles. Chambers had testified earlier that Hiss was cozy with a Russian spy while working at the State Department.

Hiss's defense of himself was so masterful that the committee adjourned to a private caucus and a motion was made to offer him a Congressional apology for having put him to the inconvenience and embarrassment of Chambers' charges.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor,

Through no fault of yours, much has appeared in your paper with regard to the negotiations, or lack of negotiations, between the firemen and the City officials. Let me point out that you have been very fair to both sides in your use of the information which you had available.

Now let's hear from the administration. As your Safety Director, I have no apologies to make to anyone with regard to the record earned in wage negotiations within the Safety Department during the past three years.

When Mayor Barnhill and I took office, the City was employing firemen for around $6300 per year and the top fireman was making less than $7000. A Lieutenant made around $7300 and the Chief was salaried at $8320. We had a Fire Department consisting of a Chief, three Lieutenants and nine Firemen, which meant that on many occasions there were only three men on duty at a time.

With excellent cooperation from City Council and by continuing to live within our means, we have in three years been able to build this Department to the point that for the year 1975 we plan to have a Chief salaried at $12000, four Lieutenants earning $9800 and thirteen Firemen ranging in pay from a start of $8008 to $9048 after ten years service. All Firemen below the rank of Chief are eligible for overtime pay and the present policy is to do everything possible to keep five men on duty at all times.

Plans are in the making to promote one of the four Lieutenants to Captain, making possible a better training program for firemen and a better inspection program for our citizens.

We have increased the uniform allowances by fifty per cent and added,

Nixon dissented. Hiss had hurt his feelings during one of their exchanges. Nixon had questioned him about his educational background. Hiss replied that he had graduated from Harvard, served as Justice Felix Frankfurter's law clerk, etc. Then Hiss asked Nixon where he had gone to college.

"Whittier," Nixon said.

Whatever, Nixon and committee investigator Bob Stripling held out against the apology on the ground that Hiss had never given them a solid "yes" or "no" answer. They suspected perjury, and the point was proved later in court. Nixon never stopped ascending . . . until the night in June, 1972, when some Keystone Comedy Kops who had been hired to help him stay President stumbled into a joint named Watergate.

at the request of the firemen, a longevity program for men with over ten years service.

This does not appear to me to be the record of an administration which has refused to negotiate. We expect to continue to cooperate with City Council and the employees of the City, but especially in this time of at least a leveling off of our economy, it is increasingly important that we continue to exercise fiscal responsibility as we take time to see how the City's income is affected by these changes.

We have a beautiful City with a reasonable tax rate. Please do not force us from this course.

Sincerely,
ED EBERT
Safety Director

Dear Editor:

Question: What happened to our country, the land of plenty?

Your land and my land — ours is the leading land of capitalism. Technologically ours is by far the most advanced of all capitalist countries. Here industrial production is concentrated in the greatest degree in huge plants equipped with the most modern machinery, each employing thousands of tens of thousands of workers. Here mass production, highly organized and coordinated, with a high degree of division of labor and cooperation, has attained the most advanced development among capitalist countries.

As technology progresses, this socialized character of production grows and increasingly permeates all branches of industry and commerce. With it grows the productivity of human labor.

On the foundation of a fertile land and the world's most advanced technology the United States has erected an economy capable of providing abundantly for every American (and of eliminating hunger and suffering for many of the world's people).

Due in part to a variety of geographic and historic factors, such as a vast territory and an expanding frontier, American workers have been able to win a wage standard surpassing that of any other capitalist country.

Also important is the fact that U.S. industrial progress has never been blocked by war; instead, capitalism here has thrived on wars fought abroad. And not least important have been the militant, tenacious, often bloody strikes and other struggles of the American wage earners.

However, the ownership of this colossal productive apparatus, on which the life of the entire nation depends, rests in private hands — in the hands of a small and shrinking group of even more wealthy and powerful capitalists motivated by the drive for even greater profit. Facing them are the millions who work on the job, and the nine million unemployed, and the four million on part-time work. The mass of workers whose labor is the source of all material value produced. These own no means of production, no source of income beyond their own capacity to work — their labor power (your arm from the elbow to the tip of your fingers). They must sell to the capitalists in order to live.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Thursday, Feb. 13, the 44th day of 1975. There are 321 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

In 1689, the English Parliament adopted a Bill of Rights.

On this date—

In 1633, the Italian astronomer, Galileo, arrived in Rome and was taken into custody by the Roman Catholic Inquisition.

In 1635, the first public school in America, the Boston Public Latin School, was founded.

In 1741, Andrew Bradford of Philadelphia published the first American magazine.

In 1920, the League of Nations recognized the perpetual neutrality of Switzerland.

In 1945, in World War II, the Soviets captured Budapest from the Germans after a 50-day siege.

In 1962, the United States rejected a Soviet proposal that 18 heads of state meet in Geneva to discuss disarmament.

Ten years ago: Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin was on a visit to North Vietnam.

Five years ago: Thousands of Egyptians demonstrated in Cairo, demanding vengeance for an Israeli air raid that killed 70 persons at a plant near the capital.

One year ago: The dissident Soviet writer, Alexander Solzhenitsyn, was stripped of his Soviet citizenship and sent into exile.

Today's birthdays: Former First Lady Bess Truman is 90. Opera singer Eileen Farrell is 55.

Thought for today: Reading is sometimes an ingenious device for avoiding thought — Sir Arthur Helps, English historian, 1813-1875.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

How important is salt in the diet? When used in excess can it be harmful?

MRS. G. K., Penn.

Dear Mrs. K.:

In a recent edition of Consultant Magazine, Dr. William Dock, Director of Medicine at the Brooklyn, N.Y., Veterans Administration Hospital, defines the importance of salt in the diet.

He says: "If your blood pressure is over 128-80 learn to live with no salt added in the kitchen or at the table."

"Living with less salt means avoiding salty foods such as crackers and chips and foods canned with salt as a preservative."

"An obvious advantage of low salt intake is to allow you to control high blood pressure with a minimal use of drugs."

"Even if you are not hypertensive (high blood pressure) a low salt diet helps you lose weight. Fat burns off very slowly, but in the first week of starvation most weight loss is caused by the lack of salt."

"In cool weather you need only 300 mg. of salt a day, and the amount goes up proportionately in hot weather, or if you exercise vigorously.

"As a rule, your weight will fall two pounds for every seven grams of salt lost during exercise. If you are exercising regularly you may have to supplement your diet with salt."

"When you are away from home you will find yourself eating saltier foods than usual. Expect to gain four or five pounds during a vacation, but you should lose it in three days, back on a low salt diet."

"The best salt substitute is good cooking with lemon juice, mint, mustard, herbs, cranberry sauce, curry and vegetables with real flavor."

Dr. Dock's excellent advice refers specifically to the reduction of salt as one of the methods of preventing coronary heart disease.

A low salt diet, a low fat diet, sensible exercise, and the avoidance of tobacco are his recommendations for the maintenance of a good, healthy heart.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH . . . People on restricted salt intake should remember that carbonated drinks contain hidden quantities of salt.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur F. Burns, the Federal Reserve Board chairman, maintains that allocation of credit by the Fed could wreck the economy. Some critics maintain that the failure to allocate already has.

Burns long has been in the position of protecting what he considers to be the purity of the Fed, the nation's central bank, from political taint. The Fed, he feels, must be above such considerations.

His critics insist that social desirability should be a criterion in granting credit. Without such a guideline, they say, credit simply goes to the highest bidder — often for an inflationary, speculative or nonessential use.

A challenge to the existing technique of dispensing credit to whoever bids the highest is now being made in Congress, by Democrats mainly, who feel credit over the past few years has been channeled in the wrong direction.

Housing, they say, is the most obvious illustration.

Whereas potential homebuyers couldn't afford the high rates of interest in the past few years — and in many states usury laws prevented loans from being made at all — business could, albeit reluctantly.

With homebuyers lacking the ability to compete with various types of businesses that can afford 10 per cent or more, wouldn't it have been better to allocate?

It would be impossible, Burns told a House Banking subcommittee, to devise a leak-proof program of controls. "The ones who would probably suffer most are small businesses and homebuyers," he said.

Burns and others opposed to allocations, which would seem to mean most of the banking community, might have some points on their side, but the subject is bound to be thrashed about if not out, in Congress, in banking conventions, in public forums.

While the arguments over allocation are loaded with pros and cons from whichever direction viewed, that of proponents or opponents, they could also disguise what amounts to a challenge to the Fed's independence.

The Fed has unusual power in the American system. It has a degree of independence sufficient, in fact, literally to challenge an administration economic program. Its cooperation is sought, not demanded, by the White House.

For many years academic and political figures have challenged that power with words, but the Fed has shrugged them off. There still remain many who would like the Fed to be more submissive to their wishes.

But for congressional advocates of allocation, Burns had a devastating and under the circumstances, ironic reply: to delegate allocation powers to the Fed would be to put into its hand "enormous and virtually dictatorial power," the very thing the Fed allegedly has too much of.

Energy Plan Compromise Promoted

WASHINGTON (AP) — A leading conservative Republican senator is proposing a compromise to avert a confrontation between President Ford and Congress on energy policy.

Sen. Robert Dole, former Republican national chairman, planned to offer an amendment today to allow the first part of Ford's tariff increase on foreign oil while delaying the rest of his import-fee schedule for 90 days.

"Most of us agree on the importance of ending our dependence on oil imports, and I hope we can avoid a confrontation between the President and the Congress by passing this amendment and moving on," Dole said Monday.

Congress has been moving on a course that could result in junking Ford's energy program within the next two weeks.

A House-passed bill would end the only part of Ford's program already in effect, a $1-per-barrel duty on imported oil. It also would stop additional levies of $1 each set to go into effect March 1 and April 1.

That bill is in the Senate Finance committee, where Dole was to offer his amendment.

Dole's amendment would allow the first $1 levy to stand and allow Ford to reimpose the other $2 after 90 days if Congress has not come up with an alternative plan by then.

Dole announced his proposal after the Finance Committee received an indication from the administration that a compromise is possible.

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon told the committee Monday that, "We will be delighted to discuss and cooperate on any proposal."

However, Simon added there is no reason to discuss compromise now because Congress has come up with no alternative to Ford's proposal for the $3-a-barrel tax on oil imports.

Brown Speaks To Broadcasters

ATLANTA (AP)—Broadcasters should rely more heavily on the tastes and concerns of local viewers for programming guidance, Rep. Clarence Brown, R-Ohio, said Wednesday.

Brown told the annual convention of the National Association of Television Program Executives here that each broadcast licensee should serve as prime counsel for the tastes of his viewers. He told the broadcast executives they have "no greater obligation as programmers."

Mystery Car Dream Turns To Nightmare

DALLAS (AP)—It looked for a time like the Great American Dream: a car which would do 70 miles to the gallon and sell for only $2,000. But the dream turned into a nightmare for hopeful investors when the law stepped in.

A tough-talking widow from California turned up in Dallas to announce she had the answer to the energy problem with a two-cylinder, three-wheeled auto which would start rolling off the assembly lines by summer.

Just one week later, Elizabeth Carmichael and her 20th Century Motor Car Corp. found themselves banned from doing further business.

When criminal charges rapidly followed, Mrs. Carmichael disappeared along with seven of her accused fellow company officials.

Two other company officials surrendered to authorities immediately and five of the seven who fled surrendered in Los Angeles on Monday. Mrs. Carmichael was still being sought.

The men who surrendered Monday appeared at police headquarters in connection with grand theft charges filed in Dallas. The five also were served with a summons to appear Feb. 20 in Los Angeles Superior Court to show cause why they should not be permanently enjoined from further sale of stock options and dealerships in the company.

Legal actions against the company have piled up since the fatal shooting Jan. 22 in 20th Century's Encino, Calif., offices of the firm's publicity man, William Dale Miller, a 37-year-old ex-convict from San Francisco.

Elizabeth Carmichael, a 42-year-old, 6-footer with red hair, said she was ready to throw down the gauntlet against the Big Three of Detroit. She said they had not given the American public a free choice in cars since Henry Ford introduced his Model-T.

She said her efforts already had been met with sabotage, threats to her employees and harassment from state officials she said she believed to be on Detroit's payroll.

"But we can handle it," she said. "We're going to knock the hell out of them."

She said dealers were being appointed for 30 states and that deposits on orders for the first cars were coming in at such a rate that she expected the first year's production of 88,000 to be sold in advance.

"Frankly, I never would have thought people would buy a car without driving it first," Mrs. Carmichael said. "But apparently they will."

Dealers were required to pay $35,000 to $75,000 for a franchise. She said Pan-Marine Products of Tokyo bought the Japanese distribution rights for $1,085,000. She said the company was negotiating with a subsidiary of Caravan International of Alberta for the Canadian market.

When 20th Century first began operating in California last year, news of its wonder car, the Revette (then called the Dale), spread quickly across America.

The National Observer carried a front-page story of 2,500 words. The Atlanta Constitution ended its article with "Good luck, Mrs. Carmichael." There were articles in U.S. World News and Report, the Washington Star-News, the Boston Globe.

A sign that all was not well with 20th Century came at the middle of last week.

A judge's restraining order halted the firm's operations and appointed a court attorney to keep the company records and assets intact pending further action.

It was said that the sales pitch for the Revette — and for two larger models to follow later — made no mention that two similar restraining orders had already been issued against the company in California. Instead of remaining to fight them, the business had been largely moved to Texas.

It was further claimed that neither the car's efficiency nor its performance had been proved. Purchase options and dealerships had been sold when, in fact, necessary financing and parts did not exist, it was charged. A postal inspector who visited the location of the company's California plant at Burbank said he found the buildings vacant.

In Dallas, Mrs. Carmichael operated from rented offices on LBJ Freeway and said she was negotiating for the unused Ford plant in the city and hoped to give employment to 9,000 workers. A spokesman for a firm occupying part of that plant said no negotiations were in progress.

Mrs. Carmichael said six prototypes of her three-wheel Revette are in existence and have been displayed at auto shows in Chicago and Los Angeles.

She also said she had driven one of them into a brick wall at 60 m.p.h. to test its super-tough plastic body. She said the body was made from a material developed to protect the nose cones of American space vehicles during re-entry.

A newsman found the only prototype in Dallas, hidden away in what she claimed was the company's research and development laboratory: an empty warehouse. Two mechanics were working on the transmission, which she said had been damaged when a plane flying it in from California struck turbulence.

The two-passenger, streamlined prototype, 14 feet, 8 inches long, resembled a small Ferrari or Corvette. The engine was in back and the 10-gallon gas tank in front.

One engineer who saw the car described it as "a load of junk," cannibalized from an engine of a type usually used for portable generators, with two lawnmower carburetors and a borrowed transmission.

He said he doubted it would either attain the top speed of 85 m.p.h. claimed for it or get 70 miles to the gallon. As for hitting a brick wall at 60 m.p.h., it would just disintegrate, he said.

Responsiveness Pushed

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A push is on in the legislature again this year to make more than 180 Ohio boards and commissions more responsive to the state's citizens.

With bipartisan support, two veteran lawmakers seek enactment of their bill to require the state agencies, before the fact, to submit their proposed operating rules to the legislature for its approval.

Rep. Thomas P. Gilmartin, D-51 Youngstown, and William G. Bat-chelder, R-93 Medina, are co-sponsoring the bill which is similar to one the Youngstown lawmaker saw die in a House committee last year.

"I had the votes on the committee, but the word came from (then Gov. John J.) Gilligan, and that was the end of it," Gilmartin said.

"This is nothing conceived against Gilligan, or any other governor. The

Suspect Guard

Of Selling Pot

PENDLETON, Ind. (AP) — A State Reformatory guard arrested on a charge of possession of marijuana is suspected of selling it to prisoners, police reported.

State police detectives said Ronald D. Vallasky, 30, Rt. 1, Markleville, was arrested Wednesday when he reported for duty at the reformatory. They said eight ounces of marijuana were found in his shoes and clothing.

bureaucracy is out of hand, and members of the legislature need to know how these boards operate so we can better serve our constituents."

Under present law, boards and commissions establish their operating rules under the state's Administrative Procedures Act. It provides for public hearings in advance, with interested parties given the chance to be heard and with the rules then being amended or going into effect automatically.

Gilmartin said his bill, more lenient than the one he offered last year, would require that the proposed rules be sent to the legislature after all the steps under the Administrative Procedures Act had been taken.

The legislature could not amend the proposed rules, but would have 45 days to approve or disapprove. If the legislature disapproved, the proposed rules would go back to the appropriation agency with suggested revisions.

Gilmartin said he has a long list of grievances concerning the existing procedure, where citizens are faced with red tape they "just can't manage to cut through." But members of the legislature have difficulty obtaining information, he said.

Virtually all trades and professions are affected by state boards and commissions, along with others that set educational requirements and qualifications. Gilmartin said the legislature needs to have more information about how they operate "and that's what this bill would accomplish."

PUBLIC NOTICE

COUNTY: PICKAWAY

The following documents were received or prepared by the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency during the previous week. Anyone aggrieved or adversely affected by issuance or renewal of any permit(s), License(s), or variance(s) may request an adjudication hearing by written request pursuant to Ohio Revised Code Section 3745.07 within thirty (30) days of the directors proposed action to issue or deny such documents. That statute does not provide for hearing requests to the OEPA on applications, revocations, modifications, complaints, verified complaints, certifications, leases, orders, or final actions. Within 30 days of publication of this notice any person may also: (1) submit written comments relating to actions, proposed actions, complaints, or verified complaints; (2) request a public meeting regarding proposed actions; and/or (3) request notice of further actions on proceedings.

Requests for hearings on final actions to issue, deny, modify, revoke or renew permits, licenses or variances that are not preceded by proposed actions and so identified in this notice should be sent to the Environmental Board of Review, Suite 505, 33 North High Street, Columbus, Ohio 43215. All other requests for adjudication hearings, and other communications concerning public hearings, public meetings, adjudication hearings, complaints of any kind, and regulations should be addressed to the Legal Records Section, Ohio EPA, P.O. Mrs. Floyd Weller Honored For Completing 50 Years As Sunday School Teacher

MRS. FLOYD (MILDRED) WELLER

Mrs. Floyd Weller, known as Mildred to her family and friends, was honored at the late worship service Sunday at Trinity Lutheran church. She has completed 50 years of teaching Sunday School at Trinity.

Medford Good, president of the Sunday School Board, presented Mildred with a leather bound Holy Bible in appreciation of her services. She has been the superintendent of the Primary Department for many years, and always had interesting projects planned for the youngsters, with special emphasis on music and singing, and numerous plans in which the children learned to "do for others." They frequently brought special offerings for current needs, both local and other places in the world.

Miss Vickie Sowers Feted With Shower

Miss Vickie Sowers, bride elect of Steve Stone, was honored Saturday evening with a bridal shower in the home of Mrs. Harry A. Lovett, Route 1. Hostesses were Mrs. Lovett, Mrs. Danny Grant and Kimberly.

The dining table held a centerpiece of red and white carnations in a milk glass basket container and a heart shaped cake and nut cups had red hearts on them with the names of the engaged couple.

Games were played with Miss Rhonda Smith, Mrs. Jerry Collins, Mrs. George Sowers and Miss Joyce Ankrom winning prizes and presenting them to the honored guest.

Refreshments of cake, ice cream and punch were served by the hostesses.

Guests were: Mrs. Alta Sowers, paternal grandmother of Miss Sowers; her mother, Mrs. Ronnie Sowers; her fiancé's mother, Mrs. Virginia Stone; Mrs. Bryan R. Raffle, Miss Teresa Raffle, Mrs. Gary Lovett, Stephanie and Leslie.

Mrs. Jerry Collins and Jennifer, Mrs. Orlando Brown, Mrs. Rick Brown, Mrs. Desi Smith, Mrs. Tom Forquer, Cheri and Jodi; Mrs. Terry Hanley, Carre and Tara; Mrs. Don Greeno and Tammy, Mrs. Lori Bitler, Mrs. Ronnie Raffle.

Miss Sue Fluty, Mrs. Mike Lovett and Mark, Mrs. Larry Sykes, Miss Rhonda Smith, Mrs. Richard Young, Mrs. Rick Stone, Miss Pam Hyme, Miss Phyllis Young, Miss Joyce Ankrom, Mrs. Paul Elswick, and Mrs. Chuck Smith and Nancy.

Unable to attend but sending gifts were Mrs. Bryan R. Raffle Jr. and Missy, Mrs. Jack Young, Mrs. Keith Lowery and Tyke, and Mrs. Keith Smith.

21st Birthday Is Celebrated

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Van Curen honored their son Greg on his 21st birthday with a cooperative dinner Sunday at their home, Route 2, Laurelville.

Present to help Greg celebrate were: Mr. and Mrs. Jack Notestone, Mr. and Mrs. Randy Brookes and Jason, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dersom and Troy, Mrs. Cecil Dersom.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Notestone, Mickey and Michelle; Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Hedges, Jami and Jodi; Mrs. Evelyn Notestone and Damon; Starla and Bill Van Curen and Randy Unger.

Youth Service Award Winners Visit LaSertoma

Circleville LaSertoma Club held its recent meeting at the home of Mrs. Harold Garrett, Wintergreen Hills. Special guests for the evening were the Youth Service Award winners, Tammy Davis, a senior at Circleville High School and Debbie Wiseman, a senior at Logan Elm, and the wives of the Pickaway Plains Sertoma club.

During the brief business meeting, it was decided to again participate in the RIF program. Other correspondence will be discussed at the next meeting. Members volunteered for Well Child Clinic and to assist with games at Circleville Manor.

Regional Convention will be held April 10th, 11th, and 12th at Louisville, Ky. It was decided that the club will pay part of the registration fee for the active members who attend.

Mrs. Garrett introduced the award winners to the club, and they gave a brief outline of their service in the community. The Service to Mankind Banquet will be held February 19.

Following the meeting, several games were played and won by Mrs. Brent Rhoades, Mrs. Robert Mabe and Tammy Davis.

Others attending the meeting were Mrs. Edward Bohenko, Mrs. Charles Carle Jr., Mrs. Michael Griffith, Mrs. Wayne Hatfield, Mrs. Atwood Jones, Mrs. Paul Kowalski, Mrs. James Mapes, Mrs. Robert Parker, Mrs. Richard Perkins, Mrs. Donald Reams, Mrs. Fred Reichart, Mrs. P. J. Ryal, Mrs. Robert Scranton, Mrs. David Sealock and Mrs. Thomas Wolf.

Good Shepherd Circle 2 Meets In Bond Home

Blanche Kerns presented the program for the Monday evening meeting of Circle 2, Good Shepherd United Methodist Church, in the home of Mrs. Mary Bond, 213 Sherwood Drive.

Evelyn Dunkle conducted the business meeting and read an article from "Response" entitled "Light For The Dark Corners Of Life," followed with prayer.

Mrs. Kerns used as her topic "Neither Cold Nor Hot" as the basis of her discussion of scripture found in Revelations 3:15-22. She stressed the need to show other people more love. She said there is a need to be willing to share and answer the call one has. She closed the program with prayer.

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Maxine Woltz to 11 members, including Caroline Royster who joined the circle at the meeting, and a guest, Rhonda Phillips.

The next meeting will be held March 10th with the circle going to Brown's Memorial at 6:30 p.m. for a devotional program and singing for residents.

They will then go to the home of Eloise Fee for a short meeting and refreshments.

Miss Nelle Oesterle presented a program showing slides of gardens of Scandanavian countries and around the world at the Friday meeting of Solaqua Garden Club in the Parish House of Scioto Chapel United Methodist Church.

Mrs. John Eitel gave devotions preceding the business sessions conducted by Mrs. Glen Rinehart. Birthday greetings were extended to Mrs. Alfred Cook.

Mrs. James Holt introduced Miss Oesterle who showed slides taken during her travels around the world including Hawaii and Alaska in the United States. Some outstanding pictures were of England, France, Spain, Portugal, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Switzerland, Germany and Russia, along with many from Ohio.

Miss Oesterle pointed out some historical places of the old world with beautiful garden settings.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Eitel and Mrs. Glen Fausnaugh.

The March meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Austin Hoover with Miss Mary Shortridge as assisting hostess.

Guild 51 Will Meet Monday Evening

Berger Hospital Guild 51 plans to meet 7:30 p.m. Monday in the home of Mrs. Lisa Ferrell, 2090 Chippewa Drive, Logan Elm Village.

Co-hostess for the evening will be Mrs. Rosie Tootle. Members are asked to bring project ideas for this year's bazaar.

A lemon usually yields about 2 teaspoons grated rind and 2 to 3 tablespoons juice. A medium orange yields from 2 to 3 tablespoons rind and 6 to 8 tablespoons juice.

Three Local RCA Employees Win 'Suggester' Awards

Three employees of the Circleville RCA plant will receive merchandise awards as a result of their involvement in the Suggester of the Year Award Program. It was announced today by RCA Electronic Components.

The winners are: Benjamin F. Bache, Jesse J. Eakins and Anthony R. Kamler. They join nine employees of other RCA plants who will receive merchandise awards.

In this the eighth year of the EC Suggester of the Year Program two firsts were achieved during 1974. Theresa Atlanta of the Harrison, N. J. plant, represents the first female award winner and V. R. Krishnamurthy is the first non-domestic plant award recipient representing the Midland, Canada plant.

The EC cost reduction program provides opportunity to the three major areas within the system - manufacturing, engineering and administrative services. This year a tie in the engineering category permitted an additional Suggester-of-the-Year award for that category.

The Cost Reduction System program provides a means whereby salaried employees, who are not normally eligible to receive monetary awards under the RCA Employee Suggestion Plan, may receive recognition for submitting and implementing successful cost reduction ideas.

The four individuals were selected from almost 2,000 employees who submitted cost savings ideas to the program during 1974 that has netted an estimated savings of over $4 million during the past year.

In addition to receiving citations and trophies symbolizing the creativity and thinking accredited to these individuals, RCA is also sending the winners and their wives or immediate relative on an all expense paid trip to either the continent of Europe or the state of Hawaii.

According to William C. Hittinger, executive vice president, RCA Corporation and Acting General Manager of Electronic Components, "these four award winners exemplify the type of effort necessary to maintain EC competitiveness in the world marketplace".

He thanked every Electronic Components plant for their contributions and their overall cost consciousness. Hittinger was also pleased to observe that cost reduction is an EC way of life in the spirit of a family team which is traditional in the RCA fashion.

During 1974, the four individuals being honored submitted suggestions which resulted in cost savings in excess of $830,000 or six per cent of the annual Electronic Components CRS effort.

Allardyce was selected on the basis of 13 completed cost reduction projects at the Scranton, Pa. plant and his constant effort and close scrutiny of all problem areas which indicate both tangible and intangible improvement opportunities. Allardyce resides in Avoca, Pa.

Krishnamurthy won his award at the Midland plant for persistence in obtaining approval from CSA and UL regarding the use of contact cement as an implosion proofing material. Krishnamurthy resides in Portage Park, Midland, Ontario, Canada.

Miss Atlanta received her award at the Harrison plant on the basis of 26 completed cost reduction projects during 1974 and has made cost reduction her way of life at the Harrison location. She has also demonstrated deep involvement because of over seven co-originations with Engineering. Miss Atlanta resides in Jersey City, N. J.

Brower of the Marion, Ind. plant received his award on the basis of 28 completed cost reduction projects and has been a consistent contender for CRS leadership over the years in an area that is most competitive. Brower resides in Marion, Indiana.

GE Names Supervisor

PAUL PORTER

Paul Porter, a native of Chillicothe, has recently been appointed supervisor of Specialty Fluorescent at the General Electric Circleville Lamp Plant.

An electrical engineering graduate of Indiana Tech, Porter served as a Navy Combat Pilot before coming to General Electric. Between duties in World War II and the Korean War, he spent about one year here as a maintenance man at GE.

Later, in 1960, Porter came back to Circleville as a manufacturing engineer. He also worked in the Quality Department, and as a foreman. In 1968, Porter moved to Jackson to become the quality control supervisor, and in 1972, assumed the position of supervisor of the horizontal group.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Dumps Bride But Keeps Gifts

DEAR ABBY: Last month, my boyfriend's best friend got married. As weddings go, not one rule of etiquette was followed. For example, I received my wedding invitation the day before the wedding, and many others said they were invited by phone because there weren't enough wedding invitations to go around.

About three weeks after the wedding, the groom had the wedding annulled on the grounds that his wife was mentally unbalanced. (I think they both are!) The groom said that he wanted an annulment instead of a divorce because with an annulment, it is as if the wedding never happened, and he preferred this because he didn't want to be labeled a divorced man. He said it looked bad on job applications, etc.

My boyfriend and I had pooled our money and bought a very expensive wedding gift for this couple. Now we're told that if they had been DIVORCED, the gifts would have been returned. However, since the marriage was ANNULLED, the wedding never happened, so they don't have to return the wedding gifts.

Are there any rules of etiquette to cover this situation?

STUCK IN BOULDER
DEAR STUCK: Yes, the wedding gifts should be returned. But since your friends don't believe in observing the rules of etiquette, I suspect it probably won't faze them.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a very intelligent, well-read, informed man, but whenever we are out socially and the conversation turns to politics, he always gets into a fight with somebody.

We are on the verge of losing all our friends because most of the people we know are on the other side of the fence.

I have told my husband time and again to please stay off politics, but he doesn't pay any attention to me. He gets so worked up in these political arguments that before long he's in a shouting match.

How can I get him to stay out of politics?

LOSING FRIENDS
DEAR LOSING: It won't be easy for a man who's as passionate about his political persuasion as your husband seems to be. A lively political debate can be healthy (and fun), but a shouting match accomplishes nothing. Tell your hubby to cool it, and try to practice the art of disagreeing without becoming disagreeable.

DEAR ABBY: We are the proud and fortunate parents of two healthy daughters. We thank God for their whole and healthy bodies, and their normal, wholesome minds.

This letter is for people who think that the only perfect family is one that is comprised of an equal number of each sex. I have actually had people say to me, "Oh, isn't it a pity you have two daughters? It would have been nice if you had one of each!"

Others, upon hearing that we have two daughters, have said, "Oh, I'm one of the lucky ones. I have one of each."

Yes, they are lucky. And so are we.

BLESSED IN PORT ARTHUR
DEAR BLESSED: Those who make such thoughtless remarks don't mean to be cutting. They are simply assuming that given a choice, most parents would prefer a boy and a girl, which I think is a fairly good assumption.

CONFIDENTIAL TO J.B.: To paraphrase Voltaire's words in his Essays of Tolerance: "Think for yourself, and let others enjoy the privilege to do so, too."

Highway Executive Praises Virginia

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Federal Highway Administrator Norbert T. Tiemann told the annual highway conference recently that Virginia was the first state to experiment with exclusive bus lanes. This was recently expanded to allow use of the lanes by private cars carrying four or more persons — the idea being to promote car pools.

Tiemann also said that a "significant research project" is under way on Afton Mountain, Va., with airport runway-type lights installed along the road edge to facilitate safe driving in fog. These were so beneficial that an additional five and a half miles of the lights will be put in place.

Yo-Yo Business Goes Up And Down

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — What goes up and down like a Yo-Yo when business goes down and up?

Why, the Yo-Yo business, of course. And in these times of recession, the nation's largest Yo-Yo company is doing a booming business.

"When times are tight, they don't have the money to buy basketballs, but they do have the money to buy Yo-Yos," explained William Reck, comptroller of Flambeau Products Corp., parent company of Duncan Yo-Yos.

"In relation to the economic statistics of the country, we do know that when the economy is on the decline, sales increase."

Flambeau President William Sauey adds, "It's not a craze item. Kids and parents buy more of them in hard times. It offers more play value for the dollar than any other toy."

Reck said the company controls about 85 per cent of the U.S. Yo-Yo market, with annual sales of $12 million to $18 million. The firm turns out about 100,000 Yo-Yos a day.

He said that during a recession, the company commands even more of the market, "and that's exactly what we're experiencing now."

"We're running about 10 per cent to 12 per cent ahead of our projections. We really weren't expecting the kind of economic slump we're experiencing now."

Duncan Yo-Yos, first produced in the 1920s, now come in 10 colors and seven models ranging in price from 89 cents to $2.50.

The $2.50 Yo-Yo lights up as it swings.

Vanik Rips Tax Haven Countries

WASHINGTON (AP) — Saying increasingly widespread tax haven abuse is resulting in "incredible distortions in investment practices," Rep. Charles Vanik asked U.S. trade negotiators Monday to seek action against tax haven countries.

The Ohio Democrat, a senior member of the House Ways and Means Committee, which handles tax and trade matters, wrote Harald B. Malmgren, head of the U.S. trade negotiations team:

"During the upcoming multilateral trade negotiations in Geneva, I request you and other American negotiators to raise the issue of improper trade practices by tax haven countries.

"While tax haven countries do not restrict—in the traditional sense—trade between nations, they clearly offer unfair and distorted 'subsidies' which attract the flow of capital, industries and jobs from the United States and other industrialized nations.

"In many cases, these tax haven countries are quietly supported by their former owners or possessor countries—who are usually members of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development."

Vanik said the American delegation to the new trade negotiations should "oppose extending any form of generalized system of preferences to recognized tax haven countries."

Furthermore, Vanik said, "I believe serious consideration should be given to establishing some form of countervailing duty or tariff on the projects of tax haven countries."

Cheese Invasion Put Into Effect

WASHINGTON (AP) — A plan by the European Common Market to resume subsidizing cheese exports to the United States was put into effect a week ago, according to a State Department telegram being circulated among various government agencies.

The telegram was sent by U.S. representatives in Brussels to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger on Feb. 7. It said the subsidy program, which had been suspended since last July, was effective Feb. 6.

A copy of the message made available to The Associated Press said also that the subsidies were only for exports of cheese to the U.S. market and not any other dairy products.

Also, the telegram said, the new subsidy rates did not include cheddar cheese, the kind produced most in the United States.

The renewed export subsidies by the Common Market are being viewed with concern by American dairy producer representatives as possibly the beginning of another attempt by Europeans to dump massive quantities of milk products on the U.S. market.

President Ford promised last Oct. 31 that he would impose countervailing import duties on European dairy products if the Common Market resumed its subsidy program, an action sought for years by dairy groups and generally supported at this time by Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz and other officials in the Agriculture Department.

The National Milk Producers Federation, which represents dairy cooperatives nationally, filed a suit in Sept. 1973 against the secretary of the Treasury to force the use of countervailing duties on subsidized imports. The federation contends that subsidized European cheese and other products undercut prices for domestic products and thereby hurt American dairy farmers.

Largely because of that pressure, the Common Market suspended cheese subsidies last July 12 for at least 90 days. But so much had been booked in advance for subsidies under a "pre-fix" arrangement that subsidized European cheese continued to be shipped to the United States through the remainder of 1974.

Shortly after the Common Market suspended export subsidies last year, the federation and the government signed a stipulation in which the Treasury Department agreed to investigate and issue a final determination in countervailing import duties within two weeks if those subsidies were resumed.

A federation spokesman said Wednesday that the new subsidy rates are being studied to see how much European cheese may be undercutting U.S. prices. After that is done, the spokesman said, the federation will decide what further course will be pursued, including possible renewal of legal proceedings.

The new figures are also being examined by USDA experts, who were reluctant to talk about the European subsidy push because it is wrapped up in complicated trade negotiations involving many other agencies in the Ford administration.

World trade talks began this week in Geneva where U.S. delegates called for speedy action on a number of selected topics, including export subsidies.

TO ALL OUR CUSTOMERS:

Last week the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, all Ohio utilities, and interested consumer groups worked out an agreement to help those customers who are experiencing difficulty paying their gas and electric bills.

One provision of the agreement was instituted in an effort to prevent disconnections to hardship cases. Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company's Credit Department, as it has done in the past, will endeavor to work out payment plans with hardship cases such as the elderly, low income customers and those on fixed incomes.

Columbus and Southern urges these hardship cases to contact the Company and indicate possible alternative arrangements.

On Friday, January 31 our Company announced that it will also participate in the agreement by making a budget payment plan available to all residential customers.

The budget payment plan is based on a customer's annual consumption spread equally over a twelve month period. The annual consumption figure is determined by previous usage history and will be altered periodically when automatic reviews will either increase or decrease the monthly budget amount.

Details of the plan and your monthly budget amount will be included with an application in your March bill. The plan will become effective April 1.

To enroll in the budget payment plan you simply return the application to the Company.

These provisions are our way of letting you know that we care about providing not only reliable, but continuous electric service.

Man Held For Robbery

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Charles R. Wright Jr., 38, of Cincinnati, was scheduled for arraignment before a U.S. magistrate today on two counts of bank robbery, the FBI said.

Wright was arrested by Cincinnati police Wednesday for the $6,000 robbery Tuesday of a Central Trust bank branch and for the Oct. 29 holdup of a downtown First National Bank branch.

Police said they were tipped by a caller who recognized Wright's picture in The Cincinnati Enquirer. The photograph was taken by the bank's automatic camera Tuesday.

Police said they recovered the money which was covered with red dye from a device tellers inserted in the loot.

NEW PATROLMAN—Ptl. Dennis Zwayer joined the staff at Highway Patrol Post 65 Monday morning. Ptl. Zwayer completed the required course of study at the Patrol Academy on Feb. 7 and has been assigned to the local post. He is a graduate of Circleville High School and resides at 125 Wilson Ave. with his wife, the former Daylene Smalley. Zwayer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Zwayer, Route 5.

Man Questioned In Knife Death

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati police today questioned a 28-year-old man in connection with the slaying of a young Cincinnati woman whose body was found on an Ohio River bank Wednesday night.

The victim was identified as Pamela Sue Schimmel, 20, of Cincinnati.

Police said her throat had been cut and she had been stabbed several times.

Prison Escapee Held In Indiana

NOBLESVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Police held a 21-year-old prison escapee today for North Carolina authorities.

A Hamilton County policeman found Charles R. Atkinson, Cherry Point, N.C., under a bed in a home near Noblesville. Patrolman Charles Stanley said officials received a tip Atkinson might be there.

Atkinson escaped from a Hazelwood, N.C., prison last Aug. 22. He was serving 1-2 years for larceny.

Retail Commodity Prices Rise 12 Per Cent In Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Retail commodity prices in Ohio rose an average of 12 per cent last year and the physical volume of retail goods declined, the Ohio State University Business and Economic Research Center has reported.

The center said retail sales in the state for December 1974 closed the year off 8 per cent from November levels after adjustment for the usual seasonal rise.

Sales for December increased from November levels on a seasonally adjusted basis in only seven of the 25 business lines covered by the Ohio State indexes, the center said.

Highest of the seven was general stores with food, up 22 per cent.

For 1974, the center said, dollar sales of all but six business types were higher than 1973 levels.

Increases were largest for stores selling commodities having sharp price increases and continued high demand, the center said.

These included fuel dealers, 67 per cent; hay-feed, farm and garden supply stores, 49 per cent; and grocery stores, 11 per cent.

Declines were limited to durable goods retailers, with automobile dealers showing the biggest drop — down 10 per cent from 1973.

Regionally, the center said, December 1974 sales outdistanced December 1973 levels in seven of the 11 city-county areas the center surveyed.

These were: Akron (Summit), 14 per cent; Columbus (Franklin), 5 per cent; Chillicothe (Ross) and Cincinnati (Hamilton), 4 per cent; Canton (Stark) and Portsmouth (Scioto), 3 per cent; and Hamilton-Middletown (Butler), 1 per cent.

Sales volume declines were reported in Toledo (Lucas), 12 per cent; Youngstown (Mahoning), 3 per cent; and Cleveland (Cuyahoga) and Dayton (Montgomery), 2 per cent.

Sales for 1974 were below 1973 in only one of the city-county areas surveyed — Toledo (Lucas), down less than 1 per cent, the center said.

Man Guilty Of $318,000 Embezzlement

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A Worthington businessman pleaded guilty Wednesday in Franklin County Common Pleas Court to what the county prosecutor's office called the largest proven criminal embezzlement in the county's history.

J. Roger Pearsall, formerly executive vice president and secretary-treasurer of Columbia National Corp., pleaded guilty to theft by deception in the amount of $318,000.

In Pearsall's written confession, read into the record before Common Pleas Judge Jay C. Flowers, it said a severe gambling habit caused him to misappropriate funds.

Assistant County Prosecutor Frank Ray said Pearsall, who is free on a $20,000 recognizance bond, has agreed to submit to a voluntary psychiatric examination at Harding Hospital.

Ray said the charge carries a maximum sentence of five years.

He said Pearsall had voluntarily revealed the embezzlement to his employers in a letter Jan. 21.

The corporation immediately referred the matter to the prosecutor's office, Ray said.

He said Pearsall had been with Columbia National several years, and had held his last post since 1969.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Along with all the bright new books in the library we still have stories your mother and dad may have read to you.

Remember "The Boy Who Cried Wolf" and other familiar Aesop's fables? In "Myths and Legends of the Ages" the little tales are retold simply and briefly. In the same volume is a condensed version of "Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp" for the very young. "Heidi" is a favorite classic, of course. But you may prefer to introduce this little Swiss orphan in a simpler way. In Margaret Hodges' "Tell It Again is a delightful episode where Heidi first meets the gruff grandfather who has agreed to make a home for her.

"I Say a Rocket Walk a Mile" has pages of fun for the listener. Mostly nonsense, here are the verses that children remember all their life. Did your grandmother ever scare you when in the story of "The Teeny-Tiny Woman" suddenly out jumped BOO! And surely you recall "There was an Old Woman Who Swallowed a Fly!"

You may have observed that fairy tales are often difficult for a child to read. If the vocabulary and the "thees" and "thous" bother you, there is a simple translation of Hans Christian Anderson's tales entitled "Seven Tales." Especially suitable to read aloud is a five page long "Princess and the Pea." If you want to bring out feelings of tenderness and caring, try "The Steadfast Tin Soldier" a story of the true devotion of a painted toy whose courage brings him adventure and great sorrow.

The Doctor Doolittle series would take months to complete in its entirety. An easy-reading edition, "Doctor Doolittle and the Pirates" is available. It is concerned with the clever doctor's successful battle with the pirates. Sharks and fiends with knives are scarifying, but a calming talk with the sharks smooths things over with no bloodshed.

Most legends find their way into children's books. A colorful offering is "Paul Bunyan and His Blue Ox." It contains amusing drawings of Paul tossing several hams into a lake, adding a few peas and making enough split pea soup for the entire camp.

"Pecos Bill and the Mustang" finds the western hero shaving with a bowie knife and riding a ferocious mountain lion with only ears for reins.

You can have your choice with "The Pied Piper." In verse form it can be read non-stop and there are jolly illustrations by Tony Palazzo as a bonus. Or it can be enjoyed as a story in anthologies of legends where its mysterious ending will stay with the reader for a long time.

Enjoy a look back — visit the children's room this week.

Man Kills Ponies; No Hay For Feed

ISLAND POND, Vt. (AP) — "I am not proud of what I've done," said Lawrence Allard after he killed 22 Welsh ponies because he couldn't find the hay to feed them.

He said the availability of hay, not money, is his problem.

"Sure it was a tough decision," Allard said Wednesday, but he added: "I didn't have the hay to feed them and I couldn't find any. I would never have let those ponies go hungry, but they would have if I had kept them longer."

By The Associated Press

Low pressure continued to move eastward from its Wednesday night location in New York state and cold air continued to be fed into Ohio this morning ahead of a high pressure ridge which stretched from Minnesota to Mississippi.

Snow flurries were in evidence during the night in most of the northern half of the state. But from 7 p.m. Wednesday until 1 a.m. today, only Cleveland had measureable snowfall and that was one-tenth of an inch water equivalent, according to the National Weather Service.

At 6 a.m. temperatures were as low as 12 degrees at Mansfield and 13 degrees at Toledo, but near Chesapeake it was 32 degrees.

Windy conditions were to prevail across northeast Ohio where snow flurries were to continue and brief snow squalls to deposit between one and three inches of new snow . . . particularly in areas close to Lake Erie. Snow flurries were expected elsewhere in the state except for the southern third.

Skies were to become partly cloudy in the afternoon in western parts of the state.

High temperatures today were to be in the 20s, but possibly in the low to mid 30s in the south.

Execs' Sentences Benefit Charity

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — "We call him our fairy godfather," says a charity director in describing one of five Arizona dairy firm executives ordered to work off sentences for price-fixing.

U.S. District Court Judge Carl Muecke deferred sentencing of the five executives and four firms last week. He ordered the executives to perform charity work for six months and the firms to make charitable contributions of food, equipment and services equal to the fines they face.

Muecke said traditional sentences for the executives and their firms would be akin to "spitting in a blast furnace."

He said any fine money would just go to the government and "I would far rather see this money be utilized within this community."

"It has simply struck people as a novel, constructive idea," Muecke said Wednesday of reaction to his idea, presented by the five executives.

"The nicest thing about this is that responses to my decisions are usually negative. People don't ordinarily write to say anything favorable. They write to criticize."

One of the executives, James Graves, former Arizona general manager for Borden Inc., was ordered to work with the Westside Food Bank.

"He's reorganizing the place and setting it up properly," Leona Johnson, manager of the food bank, said of Graves, whom she called a fairy godfather.

"He put in a hot water heater that we didn't have. The place was badly wired and he's contacted three people to get bids."

"He has delivered lumber for shelves to store our food and he's furnished us with milk and cottage cheese. Mr. Graves is a marvelous person. He'll help us make it go."

The executives and their firms had pleaded no contest to charges of conspiring to fix the price of milk in Arizona. The four firms involved face total fines of up to $175,000. The individual defendants face fines of from $1,500 to $4,000, and four face prison terms of 30 to 45 days.

The fifth man, Ralph DeLong, Arizona district manager for Foremost-McKesson, has a heart ailment and Muecke said he would not be jailed. He is working at the St. Vincent DePaul dining room.

Muecke delayed sentencing of the five until Sept. 15, when he will determine whether the men and their firms lived up to terms of his order. If so, he said they will escape fines and jail.

The other executives involved in the order are Jack DeCordova, also a former state general manager for Borden, who is working for the Salvation Army; James Bryant, Arizona general manager for the Carnation Co., who also is working for the Salvation Army; and Paul Dew, vice president of the dairy division of Shamrock Foods of Arizona, who is working for the St. Mary's Food Bank.

Boy Scout Troop 484 and their leaders attended worship service at the Methodist Church last Sunday in observance of National Boy Scout Sunday.

Eighteen members attended the MYF meeting at the Methodist Church on Sunday evening. The president, Scott Turvey, conducted the meeting and Eric Fogler had devotions.

The group will have a bake sale at the fire house on Saturday morning, beginning at 10 a.m. Plans were made to prepare fruit baskets for patients at Pickaway Manor, and anyone having one-half gallon milk cartons is asked to take them to Evelyn Turvey or Florence Fogler.

Bible baseball was played, and a Walt Disney film "Boston Tea Party" was shown.

Cookies were served by Tammy Reichelderfer, Pam Haynes and Lora Hawks.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Fire Department met on Tuesday evening, with ten members and two new members, Kathy Frazier and Fay Graham, present. It was announced the annual election will be held at the March meeting and all members are urged to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hartranft and Mr. and Mrs. James Ford returned Sunday from a two-week vacation at Riviera Beach, Fla. Marvin is recuperating from a seige of flu he suffered while in Florida.

The Whitesed Bowling Team placed second in the Lancaster Women's City Bowling Tournament, competing in a field of 165 teams. Members are Captain Pat Henson, Sally Jones, Helen Styers, Pam May and Lucia Spangler.

We wish a speedy recovery to John Karr, who is a medical patient in Room 329, at Mt. Carmel Hospital, West, Columbus.

Tracy Strous, son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Strous, received a gold medal and plaque at the FFA Creed Contest on Feb. 6, at Hillsboro. Tracy represented the Logan Elm High School freshmen, and placed third, out of 18 contestants in the Southern Ohio District.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jenkins have returned from a vacation at Royal Palm Beach, Fla. While in Florida, they visited Jerry and Dot Spangler and other members of the Handi-Clean group at Pompano Beach.

Set Sperate Indiana Caucuses

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Republican State Central Committee has voted to allow all but the 5th and 7th districts to conduct separate caucuses to slate congressional candidates for the 1976 primaries.

The 5th and 7th have incumbent GOP representatives who will receive organizational backing.

State Chairman Thomas Milligan said the rule to allow screening committees would be with approval of the regular district organizational committees.

Milligan addressed a news conference after the state committee's meeting Wednesday. In answer to a question, he said he would like to see Mayor Richard Lugar of Indianapolis run for U.S. senator in 1976.

The chairman said Lugar, in losing last November to Democratic incumbent Birch Bayh, ran against overwhelming odds and in county after county he ran better than expected.

the following Queens and her court selected: Miss Tarlton, Jackie Leasure, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Beam Leasure; first attendant, Karen Sprouse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Sprouse; second attendant, Melissa Iles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Iles; Little Miss Tarlton, Kelley Pearce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Pearce; first attendant, Rita Gregory, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gregory; second attendant, Jill Laymon, daughter of Mrs. Carolyn Laymon. These girls will represent Tarlton in several parades during 1975.

The ladies had an Easter Egg hunt at Tarlton Cross Mounds with approximately 200 kids participating. Prizes were awarded to winners.

They are now in the process of planning one for 1975.

The group also had a bake sale, served at the annual Fireman's Fish Fry, held a rummage sale, served three private sales, had a picture taking project, picnic at Cross Mounds, Halloween Parade, and the annual Christmas dinner with Carolyn and Kelley Pearce winning the door prizes donated by Super-X Drugs and Buckeye Mart.

The auxiliary purchased a smoke ejector, a trophy case, two plectrons, and are in the process of purchasing first aid kits for all of the firetrucks. There were six girls who took first aid training.

The auxiliary float took two first places, three second places and one third place during the year. It was rented to Santa Claus two times.

The Ladies group is now in the process of planning a three-day festival in August. It will be an event in the community as part of the bicentennial celebration.

The active members of the auxiliary are: Donna Derexson, Pauline Pearce, Carolyn Pearce, Carolyn Rayburn, Mary Miller, Thelma Penwell, Pat Herron, Carolyn Ebert, Evelyn Turvy, June Sizemore, Toots Smith, Betty McJunkin, Betty Kellough, Jane Berry, Janice Garrett, Cathy Frazier, Barbara Hoffman, Debbie Penwell, Pat Leasure, Faye Graham.

Inactive members are Marie Karr and Rosie Hissey.

Cincy Gets U.S. Water Program

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The Cincinnati Taft Engineering Center has been selected to direct a $31 million national safe drinking water program, according to U.S. Rep. Willis D. Gradison Jr., R-Ohio.

Gradison said Wednesday night he had been notified of the decision by Russell E. Train, EPA administrator. Meanwhile, in Washington, Robert G. Ryan, EPA director of legislative affairs, confirmed that most of the $31 million budgeted for the program would be spent in the Cincinnati headquarters.

Ryan said the nationwide alarm over drinking water hazards, including cancer-causing elements assured "that this will be an expanding program, assuming Congress goes along."

Ryan said the hazards were dramatized not only by alleged cancerous agents in the water supplies of Cincinnati and New Orleans, but also by reported natural asbestos fibers in the water of San Francisco and chloroform in the supply of a Pittsburgh, Pa., suburb.

The 1974 Safe Drinking Water Act gave the EPA responsibility for sampling water supplies throughout the country to determine their purity and pollution levels.

Gradison said the Cincinnati center will train several hundred technicians to begin testing water supplies in 80 major U.S. cities.

In addition, the program will develop and test new methods of purifying drinking water, he said.

Park Wins Vote By Lower Margin

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — President Chung Hee Park today termed the referendum endorsement of his policies "a valuable decision on the part of the people." But the voting returns showed a drop of more than 20 per cent in public support for Park's authoritarian rule.

The government said returns from 98 per cent of the ballots cast in Wednesday's referendum showed 9,710,569 in favor of Park's major policies, 3,328,739 opposed and 231,523 ballots invalid.

About 80 per cent of those eligible voted, so the total in favor of the president represented about 58 per cent of the 16.7-million electorate.

This was a sizable drop from the results of the 1972 referendum which endorsed Park's revision of the constitution to prolong his hold on the presidency and enlarge his powers. The vote in his favor then was 12,863,468, or more than 80 per cent of the electorate, with 1,087,965 opposed and a 90 per cent turnout.

The president's victory statement was conciliatory in tone. But a spokesman for the National Congress for the Restoration of Democracy, a coalition of political, civic and religious bodies, predicted a crack-down on opposition leaders that he said would show the "dictatorial nature" of the government.

Park said he would develop a "nonpartisan national political system on the basis of a national consensus ... There must be no victors nor any losers in the referendum ... It was the choice of the majority of the people on the basis of democratic principles."

The voters were given only one choice: to say they approved or opposed the "major policies" of the 57-year-old former general who has ruled South Korea since he led a military coup in 1961. The government viewed the referendum as a test of support for the 1972 constitution, and Park said he would quit if the vote went against him.

A spokesman for the largest anti-Park political party, the New Democratic, said the party would keep up its fight for a democratic constitution despite the government's victory.

Mountain Climber Guest Speaker At Ashville Kiwanis

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Jahngren were guests of the Ashville Kiwanis Club Tuesday.

Jahngren, a medical student at Ohio State University, gave a talk and showed slides of his mountain climbing experience in the Yukon. The purpose of the climbing expedition was a medical evaluation of how the human body reacts to living in high altitudes and thin air. People from five other countries were involved in the two months journey.

Guests were present from Circleville, German Village, Fairfield and Whitehall clubs. Don Forquer presided in the absence of president Gene Tosca. Next week the club will visit the Country Dinner Theater at Reynoldsburg.

Listen to ol' Joe G. I'm gonna tell you how to make the deal of a lifetime on the "Dodge of the Week." Right now, during the Car Clearance Carnival at the Dodge Boys.

Here's how:
Every week from now till February 16, the Dodge Boys will pick one gorgeous Dodge as "Dodge of the Week." Could be a Monaco. A Dart. A Coronet. Even a pickup or van. Now you hustle down and make the Dodge Boys give you their best deal on that Dodge. Then, find out how you collect your check from Dodge for at least $300. But there's more. Trade in the right car on the "Dodge of the Week," and you get a $200 trade-in bonus. That's a total of $500!

But there's more to the Car Clearance Carnival than "Dodge of the Week" deals. Through February 28, the Dodge Boys are offering other great deals on all '75 Dodges. They've got a lot of cars to move. And they're gonna move 'em.

And—even if you don't end up buying a new Dodge, you might end up driving one. Just by entering the Dodge Boys' Clearance Sweepstakes. Each sweepstakes winner (and there'll be plenty—so one could be you) gets free use of a brand-new Dodge for one whole year. You've got nothing to lose. You've got nothing to buy. All you gotta do is come in for full details.

But hurry. If you're not driving a new Dodge by the end of the Car Clearance Carnival, it won't be the Dodge Boys' fault.

*Sorry, only one "Dodge of the Week" deal per customer. Retail customers only. Sweepstakes ends February 28, 1975. Void in states where prohibited by law. Open only to licensed drivers 18 years old or older.

5 Seniors Featured By Blue Gold Staff

By SUZI HELSEL

Rusty Burris son of William and Joyce Burris is a featured senior this week. Rusty resides at Route 1, Ashville. He plays PPG baseball and basketball.

Rusty is majoring in English and business courses. He enjoys working on cars. He feels he has benefitted from T.V. by meeting people and socializing. His advice to all underclassmen is "Hang in there, and get that diploma."

BILL BROWNING

By DEBBIE MURRAY

"Learn as much as you can while you are in high school," is Bill Browning's advice to underclassmen.

Bill, 17, resides with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Browning, at Route 1, Ashville. His hobbies are sports and going to movies.

He is presently active in cross country, basketball, and the science club. After graduation from TVHS, his plans are to attend college.

Shakespeare Course Added To Curriculum

By DEBBIE LAWLESS

There is a new course at Teays Valley this year. It is the Shakespeare class, taught by Mrs. Engle.

Mrs. Engle plans to have her Shakespeare class study three different kinds of plays, tragedies, histories, and comedies. She hopes to have movies and records for as many plays as can be obtained.

The students will study sonnets and then each student will compose a sonnet of his own. Mrs. Engle would also like to take her class to a local production of one of Shakespeare's plays.

Before the end of the year, the class will act out selected scenes from a chosen Shakespeare play.

What do students in the Shakespeare class think of it? Most of the students seem to like it; they find it fun and interesting as well.

Why did the students sign up for the Shakespeare class? Some students say they wanted more culture; others just needed it to complete their English credit, but most took it for a new learning experience.

Sweetheart Contest Set

By CINDY BEATTIE

To promote higher spirit at TV, the newspaper staff is sponsoring a sweetheart contest to elect the two top sweethearts from each class.

Nominations were taken on Feb. 7, and jars will be set up all this week. Each penny counts as one vote, and the couple with the most votes at the end of the week will be crowned Mister and Miss Sweetheart and will wear a banner for the day.

All students are asked to support their class and their school in this contest. Support your sweetheart!

Charles Cleary's advice to underclassmen.

Charles, 17, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Cleary, and resides at Route 1, Ashville. His hobbies include bowling, working on cars, and helping on the farm. He hopes to attend technical school or college after graduation in June.

When asked how he has benefitted from TV, Charles stated, "I've learned to get along with people and other students better."

CHARLES CORDLE

By RON CATRON

"If you put out a little effort and don't get behind, school can be easier than expected," is Charles Cordle's advice to underclassmen at TVHS.

Charles lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cordle at 281 Randolph St., Ashville.

Charles is a member of the National Honor Society, and his biography was recently published in "Who's Who Among American High School Students."

Charles feels that TV has taught him to be "more tolerant of other peoples' ideas and attitudes."

His plans for after graduation include finding a job and possibly going to a technical training school.

GEORGE SPOHN

By SUZI HELSEL

George Spohn, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Spohn, resides with his parents at Route 1, Orient. After graduation, George plans to get a job and possibly attend college.

He is majoring in math, science, and English. He is an usher at Lockbourne Road Baptist Church.

George enjoys hunting and fishing and has been on the basketball team for four years.

"I have met and made friends with a lot of outstanding athletes," was George's response when asked how he has benefitted from Teays Valley.

DAVE WERNER

By RON CATRON

"Be nice to seniors, to stay healthy," is Dave Werner's advice to the underclassmen at TVHS.

He is actively engaged in a variety of school activities such as; bowling league, band, and intramural football and basketball.

His after school activities include working on Saturdays and driving my '57 Chevy.

He feels that TVHS has an excellent music program and that he has benefitted from it during his years here at TVHS.

His plans for after school include working for Ohio Bell and just taking it easy for awhile.

Students Choose Nearby Colleges

By GAY STEIGERWALD

Many students from Teays Valley chose to go to area colleges. Several seniors have already been accepted to the college of their choice.

Jeri Voss was accepted to Hocking Technical College. There she will study and train to become a registered nurse. When asked why she chose Hocking she replied, "At a technical school I will receive as much and as good training in two years as at a four-year college."

Theresa Jones, Kay Cremeans, and Bob Cromley are three TV students who have been accepted to Capital University. At Capital, Theresa will study nursing and comments they have a good program for nursing there.

Kay will be majoring in math, and Bob will be majoring in English. All three of the students state that they want to go to Capital because it is a small college and is close to home.

Cindy Beattie is another senior at Teays Valley and will be studying broadcast journalism at Ohio State University. Her comment on why she wanted to go to OSU was, "It has a fine journalism school and the college has a great variety of interesting personalities to meet."

Ted Ross, also a TV senior, would like to study journalism at Ohio Wesleyan University. He likes the people and coaches there, and feels that it is conveniently located.

In the business department at Teays Valley, Gail Maynard has been accepted at Morehead State University; Kathy Lawrence at Columbus Technical Institute; and David Jones at Bliss College.

Gail's comment on Morehead was, "It is a small college and the students are very friendly. I feel that I will receive more personal attention there, rather than at a large college." She plans to major in business education.

Washington Trip Planned

By SUZI HELSEL

A trip to Washington, D.C. has been planned for March 28-31 over Easter vacation. Ninety-seven people have expressed an interest in going on this trip. This year's costs will be $65 for bus and motel expenses.

The tourists hope to see the Capitol, White House, Lincoln Memorial, Jefferson Memorial, Washington Monument, Supreme Court, Smithsonian Institute, Ford Theater, Kennedy Center for Performing Arts, and many others.

Students who went last year expressed their opinions of the trip: "I went to Washington because I had never been there."

"I wanted to see the Capitol and other monuments."

"The reason I want to go again is to go on my last trip with my friends and other classmates."

Basketball Showcase Donated By Jaycees

By TED ROSS

Visitors to Teays Valley's home basketball games will notice the new basketball showcase in the gym lobby.

The showcase, which was donated to the school last June by the Ashville Jaycees, contains team pictures and the records of every basketball team since the school was opened in 1963.

The case also contains a plaque bearing the names of the Bob Bowsher Memorial Award winners who hail from the Ashville area. Winners of the award date as far back as 1948-49 when Robert Pontius brought the award to Walnut High School.

Robert's son, Craig Pontius, took the award in 1974 for his part on the Viking squad that finished the season as league and sectional champs and district runners-up, with an overall record of 19-3. Teays Valley's coach, Bob Hoover, and his brother, Richard Hoover, were both recipients of this award, which goes annually to the outstanding basketball player in Pickaway County.

In the line of team records Teays Valley teams over the past 11 years have compiled an overall record of 151 wins and 82 losses. The best record in T.V. history came in 1964 under head coach Russell Gregg, when the Vikings went 17 and 1, winning 17 in a row.

T.V.'s present coach, Bob Hoover, succeeded coach Gregg in 1969. His '74 season had the best record at 19-3. Teays Valley has produced three Metro League championship teams, two of which were co-championship teams. The Vikes have been sectional champs three times and district runners-up twice.

The students and fans deeply appreciate this donation and this chance to show our pride in both our teams and our athletes.

Battelle Institute Visited

By SUSIE GLITT

The Teays Valley Science Club took a field trip to Battelle Institute in Columbus on Feb. 5. They decided to travel to Battelle because some of the members had visited the institute last year and were very impressed.

When they arrived they saw a film about the institute and how it originated. The institute's basic purpose is scientific research.

After the film the club was divided into small groups. Each group had a tour guide, and each guide showed a different wing of Battelle.

Some of the students saw the cancer wing where they had approximately 6,000 rats that they were using for cancer research. Some of the students saw the man-made heart which was made at the institute.

Other areas of interest were the wing in which they check pollution devices and their efficient computer room.

N.C. State Tops Virginia

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer
It's not how David Thompson plays the game, it's whether North Carolina State wins or loses.
Thompson didn't play up to his usual standard Wednesday night. The 6-foot-4 All-American converted only five of 15 shots — he was 0-for-7 in the second half — and was held to 19 points, well below his nationleading average of more than 31 a game, as fifth-ranked N.C. State turned back Virginia 59-46.
"He doesn't care how we win, just as long as we do win," Coach Norm Sloan said after the Wolfpack recorded their 17th triumph in 20 games.
Only three other members of The Associated Press Top Twenty were in action. North Carolina, rated 11th, defeated Duke 78-70; No. 12 La Salle needed Joe Bryant's short baseline jumper with 24 seconds left in overtime to edge Villanova 74-73 and 18th-ranked Clemson trounced Wake Forest 71-54.
Fortunately for N.C. State, Virginia had an even worse shooting night than Thompson. The Cavaliers connected on a mere 29 per cent of their shots.

Sloan, substituting freely, made considerable use of freshmen Bobo Jackson and Craig Davis while Thompson spent nearly eight minutes of the first half on the bench.
Kenny Carr had 13 points for State. Virginia was led by freshman center Marc Iavaroni, who scored 17 points, and Wally Walker, who had 13 before fouling out.
In another Atlantic Coast Conference game, freshman Phil Ford and junior Mitch Kupchak scored 18 points apiece and Walter Davis added 17 to lead North Carolina over Duke, enabling the Tar Heels to keep pace with Maryland in the ACC race.
Duke's big men ran into foul trouble. Willie Hodge fouled out midway through the second half and Bob Fleischer and Mark Crow played much of the game with four personals. Pete Kramer led the Blue Devils with 14 points.
"La Salle's hard-fought victory over Villanova gave the 19-3 Explorers the Philadelphia city series championship. Villanova, 8-14, had a chance to win at the buzzer but Larry Herron's 18-footer bounced off the rim.

The underdog Wildcats tied the game for the 11th time at the end of regulation when Herron scored two of his 22 points on a drive down the lane. Villanova had a 61-56 margin with 4:07 to play but Bryant, who scored a game-high 28 points, sparked a seven-point run to put the Explorers on top.
Substitutes Colon Abraham and Charlie Rogers combined for 24 points to help 18th-ranked Clemson to a 71-54 victory over Wake Forest in an ACC game. Clemson freshman Skip Wise led all scorers with 19 points.
In the Big Eight, Kansas State maintained its one-game lead by defeating Colorado 80-66 while Kansas kept pace with a 76-62 triumph over Iowa State. Elsewhere, Missouri overtook Oklahoma State 76-66 and Oklahoma downed Nebraska 65-57 in overtime.
Kansas State came alive in the second half behind the hot shooting of freshman Mike Evans. The Wildcats trailed by as many as nine points in the early going but the second half was a different story as Evans had 12 of his 19 points and KState ran off bursts of 14-4 and 11-2 to open a comfortable lead. Chuckie Williams, Evans' running mate at guard, scored a game-high 24 points while Tony Lawrence led the Buffs with 23.

Kansas slowed down Iowa State's hot offense and got a 22-point performance from Roger Morningstar to take sole possession of second place. The Jayhawks finally broke away with 10 minutes left when Iowa State's big gun, Hercle Ivy, drew his fourth personal foul. Ivy was the game's scoring leader with 23 points.
Missouri overcame a fivepoint halftime deficit with a 15-4 spree late in the game and toppled Oklahoma State. A balanced effort put four Missouri starters in double figures, led by Willie Smith's 20 points.
Oklahoma ran off six consecutive overtime points against Nebraska for a 59-53 lead. Jerry Fort scored 32 points for the losers, a season high, and his 15 field goals tied a school record. Alvan Adams led Oklahoma with 19 points.
In other action, Pitt won its 23rd straight at home, beating West Virginia 83-77; Rudy Hackett's 24 points led Syracuse over Colgate 85-63; Gary Kamstra's five late baskets helped Cincinnati beat Dayton 79-68 and South Carolina knocked off Georgia Southern 98-72 behind Tom Boswell's season-high 33 points.

Finley Sets Up Feud With Fosse

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley promises to be a gracious loser in any salary arbitration setbacks — unless catcher Ray Fosse is one of the winning players.
"If I lose that case, I'll get out of baseball," Finley declared Wednesday.
He brought up the Fosse case — though not identifying the catcher by name — in an impromptu luncheon news conference which followed the opening arbitration hearing of 1975, in which pitcher Ken Holtzman requested a $19,000 raise to $112,000.
"We pay our players well," the owner of the world championship club said, adding that the A's payroll "has increased 155 per cent in the last five years."
Finley is out to hold the salary line in the cases of Holtzman, offered the same $93,000 contract won through arbitration last year, and several other front-line players including Fosse, whose case is scheduled to be heard next Wednesday.

Joe Rudi and Vida Blue were scheduled for hearings today, but outfielder Rudi and catcher Gene Tenace settled with Finley Wednesday night. Presumably they were given raises over the salaries they got in 1974 after losing in arbitration — a reported $55,000 for Rudi and $45,000 for Tenace.
Reliever Paul Lindblad agreed to a Finley offer out of court Tuesday, so only 10 of the 13 A's cases originally filed for arbitration were left. Holtzman should hear today whether he won or lost.
Finley said: "One player who didn't even hit .200 last year asked me for a $25,000 raise and he was really sincere. To make it even funnier, he took me into arbitration." Finley added that "the player didn't even play a full season."

It could only be Fosse, who batted .196 in 69 games. Finley didn't mention the reason for Fosse's inactivity — a back injury suffered when he tried to break up a June clubhouse fight between teammates Reggie Jackson and Bill North.
Fosse has lowered his aim to an $18,500 raise, Finley said, and the owner is offering the same money as last year after at first offering the catcher a $5,000 raise.
The owner also said Wednesday that:
— Reggie Jackson recently called from Hawaii asking if Finley would sell him to another club for $1.5 million to $2 million if Jackson could find a buyer and that Jackson unsuccessfully sounded out Los Angeles Dodgers executive Al Campanis on the idea.
— The A's made a profit last season "That was so small I'd be embarrassed to tell you what it was," when they drew just over 800,000 fans despite winning a fourth straight division title.
— Despite the loss of 25-game winner Catfish Hunter, "We may have enough pitching right now to win again" and that his goal is six straight world titles to beat the record held by the New York Yankees of 1949-53.

Marietta Defeats Muskingum, 55-46

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Marietta clinched at least a share of the Ohio Conference basketball title Wednesday night as the Pioneers downed Muskingum 55-46 to top Ohio college basketball action.
In other top action Wednesday night, Cincinnati Xavier upset St. Bonaventure, Toledo beat Western Carolina and Bowling Green downed Cleveland State.
At Marietta, senior guard Chuck Robinson hit 18 points to pace the Pioneers to the victory.
The game was closer than the score indicates, with Marietta not taking the lead until the contest was into the final eight minutes.
Marietta is now 10-2 in the conference with only one conference game remaining. Since all other teams in the OC have at least three losses, the Pioneers are guaranteed at least a tie for the title.
Muskingum is now 6-5 in the conference.
In Cincinnati, Mike Accetta tied the game with a free throw with two seconds left, and Xavier went on in overtime to upset St. Bonaventure 72-62. Xavier is now 9-10, while St. Bonaventure dropped to 10-11.
At Toledo, senior guard Jim Kindle hit 19 points to pace Toledo to a 101-73 victory over Western Carolina. The game was close fought until midway through the second half, when Toledo went on a scoring spree and broke the game open.

And at Bowling Green, the Falcons held off a determined Cleveland State team to take a 69-62 victory.
Bowling Green held a comfortable margin through most of the contest, but the Vikings surged late in the second half and took the lead with about 5½ minutes left to play.
The Falcons fought back and retook the lead.
In other games Wednesday night, it was Cincinnati 79, Dayton 68; Akron 70, Youngstown 55; Malone 73, Ashland 70; Findlay 77, Wilmington 68 in overtime, and Taylor 70, Bluffton 68 in overtime.
Cincinnati Reds Fans To Pay More
CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati Reds fans can expect to spend at least $1 more per game this season.
The Reds announced earlier they were raising ticket prices by 50 cents this season.
Wednesday, Cincinnati City Council followed suit and raised parking prices by the same amount, to $1.75 for stadium and $1.50 for open lots.

Circleville Girls Take Two Games From Miami Trace

The Circleville girl basketball teams won both ends of games with Miami Trace Wednesday in the Tiger gym.
The varsity completed first round SCOL play with a 48-23 conquest of the Panthers and the reserves extended their unbeaten string to seven games with a 26-11 win over MT in the preliminary tilt.
The varsity turned in their best shooting night of the season in extending their SCOL mark to 2-4 and their all-game record to 3-4.
And it was about time, according to Coach Joyce O'Brien, who saw her team can 23 of 56 shots from the floor for a 41 per cent average. The girls also made two of three foul shots.
After a 10-all first period, Circleville erupted for 14 second period points and a 24-12 margin at the half.
Circleville kept the edge with a 32-18 lead after three periods and then scored 16 points in the final quarter for the win.
Two Tigers scored in double figures in the game.
Darla Hughes tallied 15 markers and had eight rebounds and Sue Crist scored 11 points.
Anne Frericks had six points and six rebounds, Becky Moorehead scored six points, Lisa Leahy canned four points with seven rebounds, and Sulayne Young hit for four points.
Pendelton was high scorer for the Panthers with 12 points.

The reserve Tigers preserved their 6-0 league slate and 7-0 overall record with a good showing at both ends of the floor in their 26-11 win.
Circleville blanked the Panthers in the first and fourth quarters while building leads of 6-0, 12-4 at the half, and 22-11 after three periods.
Wanda Boyd paced the win with eight points and six rebounds. Linda Holveck scored six, Kelly Steele had four points, six rebounds, and four steals, Sue Radcliff scored four points, and Nancy Radcliff and Sue Stevenson scored two each.
The Tiger reserves shot 27 per cent from the floor, making 13 of 48 shots.
The Circleville girls will go against Hillsboro in the Indian gym Tuesday and the CHS varsity will host Westfall in the cross-county, non-league tilt Thursday at 5 p.m. in the Tiger gym. Westfall has no reserve squad.

Tiger Wrestlers Set For SCOL Championships

Coach Brent Bell's Circleville wrestling team will be out for another South Central Ohio League wrestling crown in the league meet Saturday at Wilmington High School.
Preliminaries are slated to begin at 1 p.m. and the final rounds are set at 4 p.m.
Tiger grapplers pointing to the meet are Jim Cordle with a 13-4 season record, Brett Christy 12-6, John Payne 12-7, Bruce Brudzinski 10-6, Bill Mogan 9-6, Tony Dray 10-8-1, Andy Smith 5-1, and Tom Marshall 6-6.

Rihl Leads Area Keglers In Tourney

Carl Rihl of Circleville turned in the top three-game individual performance during the second weekend of the Journal Herald National Industrial bowling tournament at Dayton's Varsity Lanes.
He recorded scores of 222, 224, and 213 for a 659 series, while Rex Baker of Dayton rolled the best scratch game of the tourney, a 269.
Rihl also moved into second place in the individual three-game handicap category with his 695, one pin shy of leader Jack Skaggs of Muncie, Ind. Wendell See, also of Circleville, is in third place with a 691 handicap series.
The Drifters, representing the Circleville DuPont Co., are in fourth place in the three-team handicap event with a 3,060 score.
The X's of Cincinnati are leading the event with a 3,149 total.
The tournament, which awards $30,000 to the winner of the three-team handicap matches, still has 19 weeks remaining. It is run with a multiple and open entry format.

Bullets Bop Milwaukee

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Home cooking suits the Washington Bullets but it didn't do much for the National Basketball Association division title hopes of the Detroit Pistons.
It wasn't easy but the Bullets captured their 15th consecutive game on the boards of the Capital Centre in Landover, Md., Wednesday night, hanging on to defeat the Milwaukee Bucks 112-108 in overtime.
The Pistons, chasing Chicago in their division, figured they had an edge, facing the Bulls in Detroit. Chicago hadn't won there since Nov. 18, 1973. But the Bulls pulled a surprise, winning 103-93.
In other NBA contests, Cleveland whipped Philadelphia 115-102, Kansas City-Omaha surprised Boston 103-102, Phoenix took Buffalo 108-96 and Seattle nipped Houston 104-103.

Rozelle Talks About Drugs In NFL

NEW YORK (AP) — The words ring out from the literature of the day. Dave Megyesy wrote about it. So did Pete Gent. And Roxie Ann Rice.

Drugs and football players mix often, say they and others. The Sunday afternoon hero may be on an upper, a downer, a pill, a powder.

A congressional committee has looked at it, as have countless former FBI agents who now snoop for football management. Their conclusions have never reached the public, but every time some official says drug use is minimal some player or former player will say it's high.

The latest charges were levelled by Miss Rice, a 19-year-old St. Louis woman who posed in a two-month odyssey as a journalist and doctor from Ghana. Her charges were completely discredited by federal drug agents.

But the problem remains. Commissioner Pete Rozelle, who sits at the pinnacle of the National Football League, said in an interview in his spacious Park Avenue office here that he believes drug use by football players is way down, at least while they work.

But Rozelle does not minimize what is one of his sport's biggest problems. He does not believe that all is well, or that it always has been. Here is one exchange from the interview:

Q: Do you believe, at least at one point in football, that there were a lot of amphetamines taken by players before games?

A: Our study, and information that we got, indicates that there probably were. I know that was a conclusion reached by (U.S. Rep.) Harley Staggers committee, with whom we had a number of private meetings and shared information.

Rozelle believes that since that 1971 study the use of amphetamines and other uppers has appreciably decreased in the NFL.

Rozelle acknowledged that keeping track of drugs such as marijuana, cocaine and heroin which NFL players might use in their private lives was impossible, and beyond the authority of the league.

He said football players were a part of contemporary society and certainly vulnerable to drug pressures.

Here is another exchange from the interview:

Q: Do you think the percentage of football players that perhaps use marijuana would be higher, or lower, or the same as other young men their ages?

A: I would just have to guess, but I would have to assume it would be the same or less. They're coming out of this culture in college and joining us and so you can figure it's about the same. On the other hand, I think a lot of them are cognizant of the demands made on them in this sport and how, for their future and that of their teammates, it's important that they be in proper condition. So for that reason, I think you might theorize that it might even be somewhat less than contemporaries of theirs in other fields. I do not think it would be more; the same or less.

Rozelle said the NFL tries to stay ahead of drug problems by "staying close to the clubs, urging them to have the best possible medical supervision of all their activities and having a reputable doctor who's skilled and who goes on the line."

The league requires reports of all drug purchases by its clubs, and it employs private detectives — mostly former FBI agents — in each league city. These men earn an estimated $250,000 a year from the NFL to check drug allegations and do other detective work for the league.

The league also employs its own drug expert to read the audits from each team and advise them of what special steps they should take.

"I think that steps we've taken, both in counseling the players and the clubs and in calling for complete disclosure of the clubs' drug purchases and drug inventories, have helped a great deal," Rozelle said.

"Now I don't say that it's impossible that with 1,300 players to say that from their own outside sources some of them aren't able to get amphetamines. But we are confident that it's being carefully policed at the club level."

Rozelle said one thing that worries him is that a player will take some illegal drug, be injured seriously on the field and require surgery. "If the surgeon is not fully aware of what's in the system of the patient, and if the patient is unconscious, it can be extremely dangerous, which is what we tell the players."

Rozelle also worries about the image and integrity of the game.

"You have a division in this country today on drugs," he said. "I know that whenever we have incidents I get an awful lot of letters from fathers, from people who are not so liberal as to say, 'well, what's wrong with drugs.'"

"They oppose them. And they'll say they read this story about such and such a player being arrested or accused of using drugs and, they'll say, 'you come into our living room with your television set and my 10-year-old son has heroes. This is hard for him to accept and it's even more difficult for me as his father to accept.'"

"I don't like to get those letters," Rozelle said. "And I think it does have an adverse affect on the image."

Annual Walleye Bonanza Set

By JIM DAUBEL
Written for Associated Press
Thousands of Ohioans will soon be heading to Fremont for the annual walleye bonanza, but this year they'll have to fish by different rules.

The Ohio Division of Wildlife, at the urging of its own biologists, has im-

Utah Stars Top Memphis; Win 101-96

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Tom Nissalke, the new coach of the Utah Stars, said he wouldn't make wholesale changes with his team. But the team decided to alter the usual winner-loser arrangement.

The Stars, 24-32 this season under Coach Bucky Buckwalter who was fired Tuesday, are now 1-0 with Nissalke on the bench after they beat the Memphis Sounds 101-96 in the American Basketball Association Wednesday night.

"I thought the guys reacted real well to the (coaching) change," Nissalke said. "We had a meeting this morning. We talked about the fact that we couldn't make wholesale changes right now but we will do two or three things differently."

"One, we'll work much harder on defense. To turn this team around, our defense must improve greatly. Another change we'll make is we'll use Randy Denton more at center."

Denton responded by playing 18 minutes and contributing 12 points, and the Utah defense held Memphis to 96 points.

Moses Malone scored 25 points and grabbed 18 rebounds to help Nissalke get off to a winning start, and the new coach was impressed.

"No question he'll be a great player," Nissalke said. "But right now everything he gets, he gets on sheer ability. He needs a tremendous amount of work. It will be a great challenge working with Moses."

Elsewhere in the ABA, the Indiana Pacers at New York game was postponed because of snow; Kentucky pulled into a firstplace tie with the Nets in the Eastern Division with a 112-100 victory over San Antonio; St. Louis topped Virginia 123-111 and Denver trimmed San Diego 115-109.

posed new restrictions in an effort to reduce illegal snagging of the popular game fish.

Proposed by the division and approved by the Ohio Wildlife Council, the regulations will be in effect March 1 to May 1 on sections of the Portage, Maumee and Sandusky Rivers.

On areas of the streams posted by signs, there will be no fishing between the hours of 1 a.m. and 5 a.m., and terminal tackle will be limited to one single hook per line.

The rules will have greatest impact on the Sandusky River, where mobs of anglers descend on downtown Fremont to fish for walleyes and white bass.

Fish by the millions migrate from Lake Erie up the Sandusky to spawn each spring. The fish are concentrated heavily in the city of Fremont because a hydroelectric dam south of town blocks their upstream movement.

How the restrictions will be received by fishermen is uncertain. There already has been negative reaction, not about the rules but over the absence of advance publicity about the pending changes, a snafu the wildlife division blames on the information section of the Department of Natural Resources.

Sportsmen concerned about the wholesale snagging of walleyes are likely to applaud the decision.

In years past, fishermen have lined the river bank, casting leadhead jigs into the seven to 10-foot depths. The favorite rig is two jigs, one fished from a dropper line several feet above the trailing lure. An ounce or more of additional weight might be required to put the rig on the bottom.

The deadliest technique is to retrieve the lures with sharp jerks of the rod tip so when the jigs pass over a walleye on the bottom they were sure to foul hook the fish, usually in the back or side.

Sportsmen and fisheries biologists have decried the practice, noting that many states close fishing during spawning seasons and will more tolerate no foul hooking of prime game species whatever.

Most observers feel the new regulations are certain to cut down on snagging if the state can enforce the restrictions.

Nobody believes the changes will eliminate the problem. Only a total closure will accomplish that and the division is reluctant to take such a drastic step.

Playing Crummy Easy Says Miller

SAN DIEGO (AP) — It would seem that winning suddenly comes easily to Johnny Miller.

But that's not entirely true.

"Playing crummy is easy," said Miller, winner of three of his past four starts and a heavy favorite in the $170,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open Golf Tournament that begins today.

"Playing good and winning is tough," said the youngster who has won 11 titles in the past 14 months and has become golf's new golden boy.

"It takes a lot out of you. It puts pressure on you. You get tired more quickly. If I'm playing bad, I can play 40 weeks in a row and not get tired. Nobody bothers you."

"But if you're playing good and winning, there's a lot of demands on your time. People are always around you. They want to talk with you. There are television interviews and newspapers and everything."

"Then, if you don't win, there's the letdown. You always have a letdown."

When he started on the pro tour in 1969, Miller was a shy, withdrawn and extremely quiet.

He's still quiet and soft-spoken. But he's no longer shy and withdrawn. He's one of the most articulate men on the tour. He isn't afraid of controversy. At times he even seems to be looking for an idea to jump on, a subject to provide some interest.

It's helped make him one of the hottest properties in pro sports.

"We were just looking to break even," said one San Diego official. "Then Miller announced he was going to play here. We sold out all our season tickets almost immediately. He made us. With him here, we're looking for a record attendance. He's the difference."

Among Miller's major opposition in the 156-man field were defending titleholder Bobby Nichols, U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin, Billy Casper, Tom Weiskopf and hometown hero

Gene Littler, the Bing Crosby winner.

Others include Australian Bruce Crampton, Tom Watson, J.C. Snead, Dave Stockton, Buddy Allin and John Mahaffey.

Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player are not competing.

Hughes Sports Network will televise portions of the final two rounds nationally.

Reds Escape Arbitration For 2nd Year

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds have escaped binding arbitration for the second year in a row in wage disputes with players.

Centerfielder Cesar Geronimo and reserve outfielder George Foster came to agreement with Reds Player Personnel Director Sheldon "Chief" Bender by telephone Wednesday night.

Both had filed for arbitration Monday. It is the second year for the system won by the Professional Baseball Players Association and the Reds have yet to be drawn into actual arbitration.

The Reds now have 21 of their 40-man roster signed with spring training scheduled for batterymen Feb. 21.

"I proved myself a big league player, now I want to be paid like one," Geronimo said when he rejected the Reds first offer.

Geronimo won a golden glove for his fielding skill and lifted his batting average to .281 last year, up 71 points for the year.

Poster, 26, hit .264 while appearing in only 106 games, mainly in the late innings.

Other players signed Wednesday included backup catcher Bill Plummer, outfielder Ken Griffey and rookie pitchers Pat Darcy and Dave Overstreet.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Don't try to reach for the unreasonable but to give painstaking effort, not only to routine endeavors, but to the "extras" which may come your way. It will pay off.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Observe small differences of opinion, "little" telltale trends. They could help prevent errors. If all is well, you have the "green light" to go ahead.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Excellent Mercury influences make this a day for BIG accomplishment — even if only in the preparatory stages of new ventures, which can be as important as the actual doing.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Better advantages than you anticipate at first. An especially good period for revitalizing projects which you may have thought of dropping.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): This day will need team players as well as individualists. Try to curb your usual desire to "go it alone" — and cooperate!

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): If you don't get all the cooperation you had anticipated, don't worry about it. Try working things out another way. You CAN.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Some planetary restrictions. But this does not mean that the day is "lost." With your innate poise, you can hurdle most obstacles. Make concessions where it seems the best thing to do.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Your stellar influences improving, but you could still fall short of the mark, if not careful. Study new trends and suggestions, and do not reject unusual ideas summarily.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): To be stressed now: coordination, perception, accuracy. A continuing search will turn up many advantages and help prepare the way for improved status.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): A sense of proportion and thorough knowledge of your assignments will be important now. Stressing these, you should fare well.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): If you seem to run into more snags than usual, immediately check, and recheck, if need be. There's no sense in repeating errors or clinging to previous miscalculations.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You may have some "extras" to handle, but adapting yourself to circumstances could enable you to profit in a most heart-warming way.

YOU BORN TODAY are extremely versatile, ambitious and conscientious; can combine the artistic with the practical. Though highly adaptable, you are, nevertheless, definitely individualistic in all your ideas and actions; are imaginative and inventive and, because you are most meticulous in handling details, could excel in any craft, art or science you choose. Avoid a tendency toward garrulousness, inclinations to talk out of turn.

NEW YORK (AP) — A note.

So much for the grief news. Now for the cheers, which go to the show in general and in particular for the music composed and arranged by Billy Goldenberg (with lyrics by Alan and Marilyn Bergman).

The music doesn't overpower the show, but instead gives it a powerful assist which rarely intrudes. Goldenberg should get an Emmy for his effort and, if there's any justice, probably will.

Solar Energy For Museum

RICHMOND (AP) — The proposed new Science Museum of Virginia has been designed to make use of solar energy for heating and cooling, and when completed it will be the world's largest public building to utilize this energy source, according to Dr. Paul H. Knappenberger Jr., the museum's director.

The 55,000-square-foot facility on a 45-acre site here will include a major planetarium with a tilted dome design, a multilevel exhibit area, a total operational weather station and activity centers for astronomy, chemistry, geology, mathematics, meteorology and physics.

The chief purpose of the 13th amendment to the Constitution of the U.S. was to abolish slavery. It became a law Dec. 18, 1965.

Pro Basketball
Drug Use Studied

By The Associated Press
The pace of their game makes many pro basketball figures doubt that their players have been involved in drugs and marijuana.

The Louisville Times said in a copyrighted story Wednesday that it had interviewed 15 present and former players and coaches as well as an ex-trainer and that eight of those interviewed had said the use of drugs was widespread in the National and American Basketball Associations.

All eight requested that their names be withheld. The eight others interviewed, including former NBA star Jerry Lucas, denied that drugs were a problem.

"If drugs are used, I don't know about it," Lucas told the Louisville paper. "I've never known anybody to do it, or heard of it. My personal opinion is that it is really blown out of proportion."

Club officials agreed. Mike Storen, former commissioner of the ABA and now president of the Memphis Sounds, questioned whether pro players could perform under the influence of drugs.

"Basketball is the most exacting sport that exists today," said Storen. "Any player on hard drugs is not going to be around very long."

One of the current NBA players quoted by the Times said the game's pace prohibits the use of drugs. "The way I compete, and the other guys compete ... I don't see how they could" use drugs, he said.

But other figures quoted by the Times said that the problem is widespread throughout the game.

"How bad is it?" said one coach quoted in the story. "Unbelievable, that's how bad ... Everybody's into it."

A former ABA player quoted by the paper said between 50 and 60 ABA players were using drugs in 1973. "Everybody knows certain players in each city can lay their hands on whatever you might want," the paper quoted the player as saying.

Teddy Munchak, commissioner of the ABA, objected to the use of unidentified sources in the newspaper's story.

"In fairness to the players, the public, law enforcement officials and sports leagues, the management of the Louisville paper should provide specific names, circumstances and incidents to at least provide help to the parties involved so that some verification or rebuttal of this story can be determined," Munchak said.

Walter Kennedy, commissioner of the NBA, had no comment on the story.

City Wants Lovely Image

LOVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Loveland, Ohio, wants to become for St. Valentine's Day what the North Pole has become for Christmas.

This Cincinnati suburb yearns to be the nation's heart throb, welcoming all those romantics who want to be married in the town that bills itself "The Land of Love."

"We get young people driving in from all over the state" said Mayor

Viola Phillips, who last year married between 125 and 150 couples.

"Sometimes they come knocking on my door at 1 a.m., saying they've come just to get married in Loveland. Some days I'll have three marriages in one day."

The image of a garden of love is one the town is trying to promote in order to retain its individuality. Its rapidly growing population of 8,400, living in close proximity to Cincinnati, still wants to retain a small town image, the suburb's first woman mayor said.

"We've always been known as the 'Sweetheart of Ohio' and we like the image," said Mrs. Phillips, mother of two and grandmother of four.

"Marrying people is the gun part of my job, and I guess I marry more than any other mayor in the state."

Even the Chamber of Commerce has come up with a scheme to give Cupid a boost. For the past few years it has been actively encouraging sweethearts to send their valentines to Loveland for a special stamped message appropriate for tomorrow: "There is nothing in this world so sweet as love."

This mail campaign is historically apropos, too. The town was named for James Loveland, an area businessman who became the town's first postmaster.

Last year, the Chamber as a goodwill gesture processed about 1,500 valentine cards with the Loveland postmark and its message of love.

Cards arrived from every state and four foreign countries, said Doris Pfister, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

"Things have been a little slow picking up this year," Mrs. Pfister said. "We'd like to see the idea spread even farther than it has. We think that it's really a lovely custom to have."

Maratha Asks
Court Speed

NEW YORK (AP) — Martha Mitchell has asked state Supreme Court to speed her separation suit against former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

Mrs. Mitchell's attorney, Henry Rothblatt, said there is a "serious question concerning custody of the 14-year-old daughter. She is very much disturbed psychologically."

Margaret Shaw, Mitchell's lawyer, opposed early trial by citing Mitchell's appeal of conviction in the Watergate coverup trial and saying his "financial and personal status has not yet been resolved." She said the daughter, Marty, "went with her father by her own will."

Mrs. Mitchell has been receiving temporary alimony of $1,000 a week. She has said Mitchell brain-washed the child, who attends Sacred Heart Convent in Greenwich, Conn.

State Supreme Court Justice Manuel Gomez said Tuesday he would rule as soon as possible on the speedup request.

Iran To Finance Pan Am With Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The likely approval by the White House of Iran's plan to provide loans to financially ailing Pan American World Airways would make the arrangement the most dramatic instance of an oil-rich nation taking a stake in U.S. industry.

Ironically, the surge in oil prices that has enriched Iran also has contributed substantially to Pan Am's staggering financial losses. The carrier last week blamed a 133 per cent increase in foreign fuel costs for most of its $81 million loss last year.

An agreement for Iran to infuse new funds into Pan Am probably will be given presidential approval within the next few days, a White House source said Wednesday.

President Ford's decision could be announced later this week. "I would not expect it to be unfavorable," the White House source said.

If the agreement wins Ford's approval, Pan Am would join several small-and medium-sized U.S. banks, a shopping center in Atlanta, Ga., and an island resort off the Carolina coast as symbols of investments by foreign oil producers in American business.

Treasury Secretary William E.

Simon has estimated that the oil-rich nations such as Iran poured $11.5 billion into U.S. investments last year. However, only about $750 million has found its way into tangible business enterprises while the bulk of the funds went into short-term securities.

U.S. businessmen have been quoted as saying that Simon's estimate is low and that oil-country investments in the United States this year could range up to $30 billion.

The question of whether oil-producing countries should be allowed to invest heavily in U.S. corporations has been troubling the Ford administration in recent months. The President said last week in Atlanta that the State Department and the National Security Council are examining the possible impact of such investment.

Details of the proposal submitted to the White House are not yet known. However, the Wall Street Journal reported two weeks ago that a tentative agreement being considered by Pan Am and Iran would allow Pan Am to survive as a separate entity with its own management.

U.S. To Cut Back Strength In Pacific Ocean Areas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will have fewer aircraft carriers in Asian waters next year than at any time since the outbreak of the Korean War in 1950.

Meanwhile, U.S. air power in Thailand will be cut to a fraction of what it was during the American involvement in the Southeast Asian war. These moves reflect the steady waning of a U.S. military presence that once was felt strongly in countries along a wide arc of the western Pacific. American forces have been scaled down significantly in Japan, South Korea, Taiwan, the Philippines and Thailand, as well as being withdrawn from South Vietnam.

National disenchantment over the Vietnam war set this trend in motion. It has been helped along by budgetary pressures, rising operating costs and cutbacks in U.S. conventional forces, particularly the fleet.

Reduction of the Navy's total carrier force from 15 to 13 ships next year will mean that two instead of three carriers will be deployed in the western Pacific. With one 7th Fleet carrier sent into the Indian Ocean on a fairly regular basis, the cutback could leave the United States with only one carrier in the western Pacific at times.

At the height of the American involvement as many as six aircraft carriers were on the line, most of them within striking range of North Vietnam, South Vietnam and Laos.

Before that war, throughout the years dating back to the Korean War, the United States normally maintained three carriers with the 7th Fleet. One ship usually cruised in the Japan-Korea area, a second patrolled the Taiwan Straits, and the third prowled the South China Sea and other waters in that area.

In Thailand the U.S. Air Force still has more than 180 fighter bombers and 17 B52 bombers in position for combat more than two years after the Vietnam peace agreement.

In the coming year, that air power will be pared down substantially when about 85 fighter bombers will be withdrawn, with some additional pullbacks tentatively planned for the year after that.

As the airpower in Thailand goes down, so will U.S. military manpower. American armed strength will be cut to 10,000 from the present 25,000. Three years ago, there were 49,000 American servicemen in Thailand.

OK Grant For Ohio Poverty Work

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Anti-poverty grants totaling more than $214,000 will be distributed to four southwestern Ohio community action agencies, the state Department of Economic and Community Development has announced.

Development Director James A. Duerk said Wednesday the communities will get 25 per cent of the money immediately and the remainder by June.

Duerk said the funds were part of a special $3 million allocation made by the Ohio General Assembly to the state's 48 community action agencies to support activities authorized under the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964. The state controlling board recently released the money.

Receiving the grants in amounts set by the development department were:

—The Butler County Community Action Commission of Ohio; $67,461 for a health service project to be supplemented locally with $16,865.

—The Supporting Council on Preventive Effort of Wright Patterson Air Force Base; $84,394 to establish a "crisis intervention hotline," provide transportation for low-income and elderly residents, expand an elderly nutrition program and support other programs in Darke, Greene, Miami, Preble and Warren counties. The local supplement is $21,099.

—The Community Action Commission of Champaign, Logan and Shelby counties in Urbana; $29,333, and the Citizens Opportunity Program Inc. in Springfield $33,140 to pay administrative costs and free equal amounts for anti-poverty activities.

Thieves Take

Items From Car

Thieves took $52.95 worth of miscellaneous items from a car owned by Charles Styers, 584 N. Pickaway St., including the flashlight he was trying to locate to inspect damage the thieves did to the vehicle.

Styers told police he parked his car in front of his home Tuesday. Returning to the vehicle, he noticed that the side mirror had been broken.

He entered the vehicle to find his flashlight and discovered that thieves had taken the light, two pair of golf shoes, a golf glove, tools and a road atlas.

Firemen Make Two Runs

Circleville firemen answered two calls shortly after noon Wednesday. The first call came at 12:15 p.m. and the department dispatched to the residence of Frank Fisher, 223 E. Watt St.

Ellisa Parrott called in reporting the fire which had started as a result of a short in the wiring of a dryer. Firemen used a dry chemical to extinguish the blaze and estimated the damages at $75.

A second call came at 1:22 p.m. but no fire was reported. Firemen went to the Jack Stevens home on 270 Walnut Creek Pike but found only a faulty furnace. No loss was reported.

Nursery School In Operation

The nursery school at the Pickaway-Ross Joint Vocational School is in full operation. The school presently has ten children enrolled and there are five vacancies.

Children enrolled in the nursery school begin their day at 9:15 with free play. At this time the children select the activities.

At 10:05 the program goes into group games which provide a fun learning atmosphere. Other parts of the morning are devoted to circle time which includes discussion of the weekly theme; story time or a puppet show; snack time; group rotation at which time the children are taught elementary academics. The children's day ends at 11:30 a.m.

In addition to the nursery school activities, students in this program are currently involved in a pretty baby contest. Contestants are the faculty members of the joint vocational school and the contest is being sponsored by the Child Care HERO Chapter.

All proceeds will be given to Norman Myers, personnel director of Children's Hospital. Myers spoke to the HERO organization today at the center. His presentation included slides on the hospital.

Children's Hospital has been designated as the FHA-HERO special project for the year.

Jury Seated In $55,000 Civil Action

A jury was seated this morning in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court to hear a civil suit involving a claim for $55,000.

Thomas A. Wagner, a minor at the time of the accident, and his parents, Thomas M. and Laquita P. Wagner, are seeking damages as a result of the auto accident which occurred on April 3, 1971. Young Wagner was allegedly injured in the accident at the intersection of East Corwin and South Washington Streets.

The other car involved in the accident was driven by Robert L. Graf. Also cited as co-defendants are Yates Motor Company and Arrabelle T. Lane.

Representing the Wagners in the action is Roy Huffer. Each of the defendants have a different attorney. Leo J. Hall represents Graf; Richard C. Ward represents Yates; and Allen Berger represents Mrs. Lane.

Jurors seated are Charles A. Moss, William L. Robbins, Cecil Warren Lutz, Maynard M. Marion, Sharon R. Roese, Ronald L. Hawks, Wayne Lee Bower and Thomas E. Spiller. Nancy S. Ranck is the alternate juror.

Fire Causes $200 Damage

The Harrison Twp. Fire Department was dispatched to a fire at the Gregory Trailer Court, 4:30 p.m. Wednesday.

According to Mrs. Betty Wilson, owner of the mobile home, her daughter turned on the boiler in the stove and left a skillet, apparently containing grease, in the oven.

The grease caught fire destroying the stove and damaging a refrigerator and a small section of the wall. The fire also destroyed an exhaust fan.

Damage was set at $200. Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy James Dixon investigated the incident.

Celeste Staffers Object Of Probe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Rhodes administration officials were investigating work records today of former Democratic campaign aides, including five assigned to Lt. Gov. Richard Celeste, who got state jobs after the Nov. 7 election.

Gov. James A. Rhodes' chief of staff John M. McElroy said Wednesday that "in two departments there were at least indications that people were being paid with no evidence that any work was being done."

Celeste has said that five members of his campaign staff were placed with various state agencies after his election to help in the transition from former Lt. Gov. John W. Brown.

Celeste insisted it was "common practice" for departmental directors to assign employees to state business outside of their respective agencies.

When one of his transitional staffers, Jan Allen, was denied a paycheck by the Department of Industrial Relations, Celeste called a news conference to accuse the Republican administration of "political harrassment."

"There is statutory authority for a transition operation for a governor-elect," McElroy said Wednesday. "Certainly, there is no imperative for a lieutenant governor to do transition work."

McElroy said the intradepartmental investigations would be joined by Franklin County Prosecutor George Smith, who already had been informed of alleged irregularities.

"It looks to me like an investigation is about to begin," a source in Smith's office agreed late Wednesday.

Shortly after Celeste's initial disclosure Tuesday, Sam J. McAdow, deputy director of industrial relations, revealed that Ms. Allen, who uses the title by preference, was only one of 20 employees and former employees of the department whose records were being scrutinized.

They include a number of former Democratic campaign workers, he said, among them an ex-aide to Sen. Tony Hall, D-6 Dayton, who ran unsuccessfully for secretary of state.

McAdow, himself, had served as a campaign aide and administrative assistant to then-Lt. Gov. Brown.

Celeste viewed the investigations as a political attack against him, and fumed Wednesday: "If there were a statute for political libel to be charged, I would charge it."

Meanwhile, the Celeste camp pondered what action could be taken beyond a possible suit by Ms. Allen to obtain her check.

"They have seized the initiative," a Celeste staffer said.

EPA To Issue

Sewage Permit

To New Holland

The Ohio Environmental Protection Agency (Ohio EPA) announced today that it proposes to issue water pollution control permits to 11 applicants, specifying and limiting their discharge of pollutants into state waterways.

The village of New Holland has applied for a water pollution control permit for its new sewage treatment plant.

The Ohio EPA's proposal to issue NPDES permits is based upon a preliminary staff review and application of state water pollution standards and regulations. The decision to issue the permits will become final May 19, 1975 unless an appeals hearing is requested by the applicant or interested citizens. The director or the agency may also withdraw and revise the proposed permits after consideration of the record of a public meeting, written comments, or disapproval by the U.S. EPA.

Written comments on the proposed permits may be submitted until March 18, 1975. Comments may be sent to the Ohio EPA, NPDES Permits Section, P.O. Box 1049, 361 E. Broad Street, Columbus, Ohio 43216. The Ohio EPA permit number and the public notice number should be included on the envelope and on each page of submitted comments.

A public meeting may be held if sufficient interest about the permit is shown. Interested parties may also request an appeals hearing on the proposed permit within 30 days.

The permit application, fact sheet, proposed permit, special conditions, and other documents are available for inspection at the Ohio EPA in Columbus.
